Our City Comment & discussion by THOMAS D. WATSON

Civic Center To Be Considered Tomorrow Noon

THE committee chosen by the Community Service of Glendale to consider the proposition of securing the old high school plant for a civic center has called a meeting for tomorrow noon. This committee has the opportunity of launching a proposition that will be of lasting benefit to our city.

Using the old high school plant for a civic center is not a new idea—in fact it has been a pet hobby of a great many of our most progressive citizens for quite a while. It is a thoroughly practical idea and we are quite certain will be well supported by our citizens at large. All it has ever needed was for some organization to launch it.

* * *

WE would suggest that it be submitted to the people at once, for nothing can be gained by delay. If the plan could be carried out at once, the desks and furniture now being used in the present high school plant could be transferred to the new buildings at a great saving. In fact, nearly enough money could be saved in this manner to erect a gymnasium which will be badly needed. By turning over to the city school authorities the bungalows now used by the high school, their needs could be taken care of. If the citizens decided in favor of the plan, nothing that could not be surmounted would stand in the way of inaugurating the junior high idea in our schools. With junior high schools in those sections of Glendale, which would take care of the seventh and eighth grades of the grade schools and the ninth of the high, both systems would be so relieved that the capacity now provided for ought to take care of our needs for several years to come.

* * *

TO the senior class of the Glendale high school is due the highest praise for the manner in which it presented "A Pair of Sixes." From curtain to curtain this performance was a very creditable offering. Every detail of the play was worked out to a "fine point," which evidenced conclusively application and study on the part of the actors and excellent directing by Mr. Brewster, dramatic director. Many of the features that went toward making this a thoroughly rounded-out play were devised and carried out by Mr. Brewster.

MEMORIAL DAY PLANS INDICATE OBSERVANCE ON ENLARGED SCALE

Enthusiastic Meeting Is Held at the Wilson Avenue School by Representatives of Civic, Fraternal and Patriotic Organizations

FINE PROGRAM OPENS AT GRAND VIEW

Legion Will Dedicate Its Plot With Special Services by the G. A. R.; Afternoon Parade Starts at 2 o'Clock With Many in Line

An enthusiastic meeting was held last evening at the Wilson avenue school to develop plans for the Memorial day exercises to be observed in Glendale, May 30.

A large number of representatives were present from the various civic, fraternal and patriotic organizations. The program committee reported that talent and features were being secured that would make the event one of the finest of its nature ever held in Glendale.

The forenoon will be given over to exercises at the Grand View cemetery, beginning at 10 o'clock. At this time the Legion plot will be dedicated and a special program arranged by the G. A. R. will be carried out. At 2 o'clock on the corner of Brand and Colorado, the monster parade will start to Forest Lawn Memorial Park where the graves will be decorated by the Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts and a splendid program carried out.

Grand Marshal Colonel Fraser requests that all organizations intending to enter the parade notify him by May 25 of their intentions and the number of automobiles or marching bodies. The Elks Band will lead the procession and also play at the park.

The committee passed a resolution last evening asking that all the business houses and every home in the city be decorated with one or more flags on that day.

There will be no more meetings of this general committee, as all the details are now in the hands of efficient committees who will carry them out and make announcements from time to time of the developments." Rev. C. R. Norton presided at the meeting and Mr. R. D. White was secretary.

BRAND - PALMER P. E. CROSSING IS SOUGHT

Glendale City Council Passes on a Number of Matters

An effort to establish a crossing over Brand boulevard at Palmer avenue will be made by the Glendale city council. City Manager W. H. Reeves was instructed Thursday night to write to the Pacific Electric company to see if a crossing at that point cannot be established. The step was taken as the result of a request made by I. W. Miner of 119 East Palmer, who stated that the residents of that section are greatly inconvenienced through this street being closed.

The Ellison and White Chautauqua company was granted a permit to erect a large tent at the corner of Harvard and Orange streets, on the provision that the company pay the usual license fee of $10 for the first day and $5 for each day thereafter, throughout its stay here, and also deposit $25 to cover expense of cleaning the property after the tent has been removed.

Map of Tract No. 5662 was adopted.

City Manager Reeves was instructed to take up with the proper authorities the matter of cleaning of the lot where the Jerry Jeter tabernacle was recently standing. It is stated that the building has been removed and that the debris has not been taken away.

A communication was received from Miss Winifred Marr with regard to conditions in Verdugo canyon and this was referred to the committee of the whole.

A petition was received asking that Central avenue from Cypress to Park avenue be changed from a residential district to a business district and the hearing on this matter was set for two weeks from last night.

W. H. McDonald, 1005 Sunland avenue, was granted a permit to sell milk.

The city engineer reported that it would cost $246.50 to improve Piedmont avenue and he was instructed by the council to write to the property owners on that street and inform them of this fact, and also tell them that before this work is started the money must be placed in the bank, so that there will be no delay in securing payment after the work is completed.

Bids were received for a 300,000 gallon reservoir, a pump house and cast iron water pipe and these were ordered referred to the superintendent of plant and production. It is to be constructed on the Glendale Heights tract.

A minority protest against the improving of the first alley east of Louise street, Harvard to Broadway, was denied and the next step in this work was ordered taken.

At the continued hearing on the assessment for the improvement of Harvard, Hawthorne and Orange streets, the next steps in this work was ordered taken.

No protests were received at the continued hearing on the assessment for the improvement of Palmer avenue, Tyler and Park, and the next step in this work was ordered taken.

As there were no protests against the changing and reestablishing of the grade of Linden avenue, the next step in this work was ordered taken.

An ordinance creating several commercial districts was adopted.

An ordinance which automatically places all business buildings in Fire District No. 1, in which class

RAY L. MORROW IS THE NEW CITY ATTORNEY

Former Deputy Is Appointed to Be Shaw's Successor

Attorney Ray L. Morrow of 328 Patterson avenue, who for the past several months has been acting as deputy city attorney of this city, was appointed Thursday night to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Hartley Shaw, as city attorney of Glendale. The appointment was made by City Manager Reeves and the appointment was approved by all of the members of the council.

Just before Mr. Morrow was appointed to that position the resignation of Mr. Shaw was, on motion of Councilman Kimlin, accepted. After this action was taken City Manager Reeves rose and announced the appointment of the new city attorney.

Attorney Morrow has been a resident of Glendale for the past 17 years. He came here when a lad and entered the Freshman year at the Glendale High. In 1910 he was graduated from this institution.

From Glendale High he entered the University of Southern California, where he secured his prelegal and legal education. After six years of college work he was graduated from that institution in 1916. In the same year he was admitted to the bar, and until last July, when he became deputy city attorney of Glendale, he was engaged in the practice of law in Los Angeles. He has made a specialty of the study and practice of municipal law and is well equipped and is entirely capable of handling the duties of the office of city attorney of Glendale.

Mr. Morrow will, as in the past, have his office in the city hall, where he may be seen throughout the daytime.

SCOUT BENNER IS EN ROUTE NORTH TO CONFERENCE

To Attend Region No. Twelve Pow Wow at Yosemite

Scout Executive Harold Benner left Glendale early this morning for Yosemite National park where he will attend the third biennial conference of scout executives of Region twelve. The executive board of the council authorized Mr. Benner to attend the conference more than a month ago.

"I'm going to take a big note book with me, together with my Kodak and I hope between the two of them to bring back to the Verdugo Hills district a galley of new ideas, pep, and photos of the conference," declared Mr. Benner just prior to leaving.

According to Mr. Benner, committees have been at work for weeks in preparation for what promises to be the greatest conference in the history of western scouting. The presence of Lorne W. Barclay, national director of the department of education, and L. L. McDonald, national camp director, will give an added significance and strength to the conference which cannot be over estimated. Last minute reports show that scout executives from California, Arizona, Utah and Nevada will be in attendance at the conference 100 per cent.

The program has been arranged in a manner calculated to promote an intensive study of administrative problems without waste of time or lack of opportunity for the most general discussion.

The high school principals of the state of California will hold their annual conference at Yosemite during the period of the Scout Executive conference and this will doubtless furnish a splendid opportunity for interchange of ideas on problems affecting the co-operation between the public schools and the Boy Scout movement. Mr. Benner expects to look up George Moyse, principal of the Glendale Union high school and also Mr. F. S. Moore of the Burbank high school. "I expect to be back in the office by May 20," stated Mr. Benner, "and during my absence Miss Leah Pardon, the office secretary, will take charge."

BRAND - CYPRESS APARTMENT IS UNDER WAY

Brick Work on New Construction Is Now Going in

Brick work is well under way for the two-story store and apartment building being erected at the southeast corner of South Brand boulevard and Cypress street for C. A. Bunting of 1325 North Brand boulevard by B. W. Sherwood, contractor.

This structure will have a frontage of 50 feet on Brand boulevard and 62 feet on Cypress street and is being put up at a cost of approximately $18,000. The front will be finished in cream colored ruffled brick.

On the second floor there will be two three-room apartments and four two-room apartments. The lower floor will be divided into two or three stores. It is anticipated that the building will be completed within ninety days.

New Musical Unit Is Formed in Glendale

Frank P. Caughlins' Glendalians, a new musical society of the Knights of Columbus, will make its initial bow before the public at the K. of C. dance to be given Saturday evening, May 12, at the club house at 330 East Lomita avenue. It is anticipated that this new orchestra, which comprises some of the prominent musical artists of the city will take an active part musically in the affairs of the city. Frank P. Caughlins is director of this musical society and will be assisted by George Killenger, Eddie Monfot, Miss Jones, Jimmie Delaney, Paul Fisher, Joe Kennedy and Ran. Doll.

SUN DRUG CO. IS SEEKING STORE LOCATION

Reported Company May Buy Lot or Rent Building

It is now definitely stated that the Sun Drug company of Los Angeles will open up one of its stores in Glendale as soon as a suitable building can be obtained.

This rumor has been current for some time, but not until yesterday was any definite information given out by anyone who was in a position to give the facts. The Sun Drug company may buy a lot and build or it may occupy temporary quarters until it builds its own home.

ROTARY CLUB BUYS HAYNES CANYON

To Be Used for the Boy Scouts for Summer Camp

The Glendale Rotary Club has arranged for the purchase of Haynes Canyon and will allow the use of same for a Boy Scouts camp, according to the report made by Jack Huntley, chairman of the committee, which was accepted at the regular meeting of the Rotary Club held yesterday. Leases on cabin sites will also be sold to Glendale residents and undoubtedly a good many of the Rotary Club members will build cabins there.

George B. Karr, the newly elected president, was in charge of the business meeting. In the absence of France Henry the community singing was led by Owen Emery. There were thirty-three members and visitors present. Among the visiting Rotarians were Art White of Berkeley, G. Waldrop of Tempe, Arizona.

The following committees for the coming year were announced: Boys' work, Art Dibbern, Pete Hatch, Jim Newton, Ed Phillips and Jim Rhoades; Fellowship, George Bentley, Clarence Redmond, Owen Emery; Education in Rotary, Ernest Ford, Bill Howe, Tom Watson; Public Affairs, Dan Kelty, Al Eastman, Val Hollister, Gil Cowan; Luncheon, J. I. Wernette, Ed Jones, Dave Crofton; Entertainment, Ed Hewitt, Fay Stone, Bill Tanner, George Moyse; Rotoservice Correspondents to International Headquarters, Dick White, Ruie Downing; Boys' Camp, Jack Huntley, C. C. Cooper, Harry Webb; Budget, Herb Smith, Rene Olin, Bill Hunter; Song Leader, France Henry; Organist, Paul Carson; Sergeant at Arms, Carl Kirkman.

Committee chairman for the past year turned in reports of the work accomplished. Dave Crofton, chairman of fellowship, turned in $54.14 as balance of good-cheer fund. Owen Emery reported for the boys' work committee. Under communications a letter was read from Mrs. Mattison B. Jones, president of the Glendale Music Club, regarding a benefit concert to be given for Miss Hazel Linkogel. A letter was also received from Glendale Community Service regarding proposed activities among the young people of the city, advising that for the young women's work the Tuesday Afternoon Club had offered the use of its clubhouse for one day a week. It also stated that arrangements had been made with Mrs. J. R. Case, whose husband is advertising manager for the W. H. Leimert Co., to take charge of the young women's activities. Mrs. Case has recently come here from San Diego, where she handled this work for Community Service and had direct supervision over 3,000 girls.

George Bentley and James Newton acknowledged receipt of birthday gifts from the club since the last meeting.

CITY COUNCIL TO FIGHT THE SEWER BILLS

If Enacted Would Place Matter Under Control of Board of Supervisors

The Glendale city council voted Thursday night to lend its aid in every possible way toward defeating assembly bills Nos. 147, 190 and 191 and senate bill No. 704, which, if enacted, would transfer the control of the sewer problem from city officials and would place it in the hands of the supervisors of the various counties of the state.

It is understood that Attorney Stephens and other representatives of Los Angeles are in Sacramento at this time in an endeavor to kill these bills. Glendale is standing directly behind Los Angeles in this matter and the members of the council are doing everything they can to assist that city in this fight.

The following resolution was adopted by the council and ordered sent last night by telegraph to the proper authorities at the state capitol:

Whereas, there are under consideration by the legislature of the

PRESS RUNS VS. CIRCULATION RECORDS

Advertisers and readers invited to witness our press run and inspect our circulation records.

Press run and circulation are two different propositions.

The press run of a newspaper is the printing of it, but the circulation records tell the story. They tell where the paper goes after it is printed. If it goes into a home that is anxious to get it and values it enough to pay good money for it, the advertisers get a run for their money.

When papers are indiscriminately thrown around in streets and alleys, the advertisers get little value.

BONA FIDE PAID CIRCULATION IS WHAT COUNTS.

STRAWBERRY FETE AT MASONIC HALL

It is possible owing to the radical change in the weather that the strawberry festival which was advertised for the lawn of B. F. Bourne at 203 East Maple on Saturday evening, will have to be held under cover in the Masonic Temple. The proceeds are to go to the fund for a new temple and all Masons and their friends are invited.

ELECTRIFICATION OF GLENDALE AVE. IS ADVANCED

City Council Grants Permit to Los Angeles and Salt Lake

Authority to electrify its line on Glendale avenue was granted by the Glendale city council to the Los Angeles and Salt Lake Railway company, a subsidiary of the Union Pacific company, Thursday night. The application for a permit to take this action was received by the council about two weeks ago, but action was temporarily withheld on account of the company placing the expression "with or without steam" in its request.

After taking up the matter with the railway company and thoroughly going over the matter the council decided to permit the term under question to remain, the company holding that it should not be called upon to relinquish the right to use steam in order to be permitted to electrify the line.

All that remains now to be done before actual work on the line may be started is the securing of a similar permit from the council of Los Angeles in connection with a short stretch of track lying in the limits of Los Angeles. This, it is understood, will be forthcoming at an early date.

The application made to the Glendale council by the Los Angeles and Salt Lake Railway company, read as follows:

"Pursuant to the provisions of Section 465-A of the civil code of the state of California, the undersigned Los Angeles and Salt Lake Railway company, corporation, hereby respectfully applies for authority to use electricity, or compressed air or both with or without steam, for the purpose of propelling cars and trains upon that portion of its line of railroads situated within the corporate limits of the city of Glendale, including spur track, side track, and all other tracks, which are a part thereof and incidental thereto. Applicant hereby agrees to pay all costs of publication and all other expenses incidental to the granting of such authority."

CENTRAL AVENUE OWNERS UNITE FOR BOOST

Several informal meetings of Central avenue property owners interested in the improvement of that thoroughfare have been held at the office of Charles B. Guthrie on Broadway during the week and last night quite a large group assembled there and enthusiastically agreed upon a program which will be put before a mass meeting of Central avenue property owners to be called within a few days.

The program contemplates the paving of the street from Broadway to San Fernando with asphaltic concrete, and the installation of an ornamental lighting system similar to that on San Fernando road from Kenneth road to San Fernando.

Petitions covering both these projects will be circulated energetically in an endeavor to cover the entire street in time to present them at the Thursday meeting of the city council.

Charles B. Guthrie is the moving spirit in the enterprise and is asking Central avenue residents who are willing to circulate the petitions in their blocks to communicate with him.

The petitions for paving will include the laying of sewer and any other necessary pipes so that the street will not have to be torn up for the purpose later.

The improvement projects also include a movement for the widening of the street at some future time to 100 feet by the establishment of a setback line for all residences built in the future of 10 feet from the sidewalk line. When the widening actually takes place five or ten years hence, buildings which stand nearer than this 10-foot setback will have to be moved to conform to the line.

Mr. Guthrie reports warm endorsement of these plans by the property owners consulted, who believe they would advance property values 100 percent.

Another meeting will be held at Mr. Guthrie's office tonight to perfect the plans outlined which he hopes will be largely attended by Central avenue residents, and it is probable a Central Avenue Improvement association to promote the proposed development, will be effected.

EXCHANGE CLUB SHOWS PEP AT ITS MEETING

Dines at the Golden Spanish Cafe on South Orange

By W. L. TAYLOR

More pep was injected into the meeting of the Exchange club Wednesday at the Golden Spanish cafe, 111 North Orange, than has characterized any meeting for several weeks. The dinner was a dandy and Attorney King and Dr. Belyea were highly complimented for the splendid lunch served.

Fish stories held the attention of the diners, and fines were assessed here and there upon members who came in late or violated the "well defined" rules of the club. And the fines were paid gladly, for every cent goes into a charity fund maintained by the club.

The capital prize was donated by I. B. Carlock, who gave a straw hat as a reminder that the "straw hat days" are really here. Mr Jessup was the winner.

Amidst its hilarity and good cheer the club paused long to pay its respects to Mothers' day which comes Sunday next. President Jackson asked the members to stand and remain silent for a time in honor of "the best friend we ever had."

"Mothers now are not looked upon as in the days gone by," said President Ripley Jackson. "I have ever honored the memory of my mother although she passed away when I was but ten years old, and it makes me feel sad to see the lack of reverence now, and especially on Mothers' day—the day set apart to pay honor to the best friend we ever had."

Members of the club will wear carnations on Mothers' day, white for the dead, and red for the living.

An inkling of another good time came when Mr. Jackson announced that the Los Angeles Exchange club is making preparations to give a big affair in the Angel City in June to which all members of the Glendale Exchange club will be invited. This invitation will likely cause the local club to dispense with its regular meeting for ladies which heretofore has been given once a month.

Mrs. Champion highly entertained the club with a number of vocal selections, which were very much appreciated. Calling upon Mrs. Champion was unexpected by her but she demonstrated that she is always prepared to sing—and to sing well, too. Mr. Jackson also assisted in the entertainment by giving several vocal numbers.

The matter of putting on a play in the future—"Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch" — was discussed but the club members felt that they did not want to attempt such a venture unless the entire net proceeds were given to charity or some deserving organization.

Wednesday's luncheon meeting was a reminder that "week by week, in every way, the Glendale Exchange club is getting better and better," and the absent members have real cause for regret at not being present.

LOOSE SERVICE WIRE DAMAGES AUTOMOBILIST

A service telephone wire, which evidently had become loosened from the pole and swung down close to the street, caused the severe injury at 3:20 o'clock this morning of Andrew Albecker of 3958 Glen Feliz boulevard, Los Angeles, the accident occurring at 1224 South San Fernando road. Four of the victim's teeth were knocked out and he suffered several cuts below the left eye and nose.

He was rushed to the Golden State hospital in Los Angeles, where Dr. French administered medical aid. Three stitches were necessary.

The wire which caused the trouble was hanging just low enough to catch the windshield of the car that Albecker was driving. Flying glass was responsible for the lacerations received by the driver.

MASONS' DRIVE FOR TEMPLE FUNDS IS ON

Orders Start Race for Supremacy in Fund Collection

The raising of funds for the new Masonic Temple is likely to develop considerably rivalry between the different orders as to who will be the first with a subscription. The Shrine club and the White Shrine of Jerusalem have already entered the list with entertainments for the purpose. The first of these will be given Saturday evening, the 12th, at the home of Mr. Bourne, 203 East Maple, under the auspices of the White Shrine of Jerusalem. It will be an old-fashioned strawberry festival with entertainment features, all for the low price of 25 cents. Everybody is invited and promised his or her money's worth.

COMMUNITY SING PLAN FOR MAY 15

Success of First Event Makes Anticipation of Second Event Keen

SO. CAL. GLEE COMING

Song Leader From Los Angeles Club Will Direct

Glendale Community Service is planning to put on another big community music night at the high school auditorium on Tuesday evening, May 15, at 8 o'clock. Those who attended the splendid performance the night Hollywood visited Glendale are looking forward to something very much worth while next Tuesday evening.

The University of Southern California's glee club has been secured as the special feature and attraction for this event. Mr. Horatio Cogswell, head of the vocal department of the College of Music will be here with a glee club of twenty-five members to put on a program that will be very interesting and enjoyable. A good portion of the evening's program will be given over to the glee club.

In addition to this, Mr. J. A. Lewis, president of the Song Leaders' club of Los Angeles, will be here to direct the community singing. Mr. Lewis is a very enthusiastic and inspiring leader and everyone will enjoy singing with him.

It is expected that representatives of the Los Angeles Music Week committee will be present to inform the public of the aims and program in Los Angeles next week.

The glee club is raising funds for an educational trip back east and therefore a collection will be taken during the performance.

Everyone is cordially invited to attend.

ADVANCEMENT FOLKS MOVE CAUTIOUSLY

Delay in Petitioning on Broadway Lighting Standards Explained

The change to cooler weather brought a good attendance to the meeting of the Glendale Advancement association luncheon meeting on Thursday, but no action of serious import was taken.

On behalf of the lighting committee Mr. Kinch reported a disposition to delay the circulation of any petition for the continuation of the present 5-globe lighting standards on Broadway for the reason that the maintenance of the lights is uncertain, the city officials having complained that the cost is in excess of the benefit derived, therefore property owners are reluctant to invest in something that may be transient.

After the luncheon Mr. Kinch stated he would take up with city officials a proposition to retain the present standards but remove the five globes and substitute a two-globe bracket similar to that in use on San Fernando road. This he believed would be a simple change which would meet the requirements of the situation without great expense, and the two-light standards could then be continued east on Broadway and perhaps be installed on Glendale and other main boulevards of the city.

C. W. Ingledue, president of the association, reported concerning the Glendale avenue extension of the Glendale-Montrose railroad that favorable action was expected from the Los Angeles city council on the granting of a franchise, and when granted it would remove the last obstacle to the equipment of the line.

On behalf of the Glendale avenue paving committee Mr. McClish stated that two petitions are now being circulated. The failure to act on the part of the city council is due, he understood, to the possibility that a new grade for Glendale avenue will have to be established.

Mrs. Tight as chairman of the hotel committeee, reported the absence of the hotel architect, Arthur Lindley, on a honeymoon, and Mr. Finley stated plans had been practically completed and placed in the hands of contractors for bids. He also said that a picture of the proposed hotel was being painted and would be posted at the corner of Broadway and Glendale in accordance with the instructions given by the association at its previous meeting.

There being no other business to claim attention, the association adjourned earlier than usual.

SEEKS FUNDS IN CALIFORNIA TEAM AT CHICAGO

Performances made by Southern California high school athletes at the National Interscholastic track and field championships meet held a year ago in Chicago were so remarkable that it is the intention of local principals and coaches to send a representative team from California to the Stagg Field classic each year. With this end in view, officials in charge of the state meet, which comes to Patterson Field, Occidental College, on May 12, are looking forward to a gate sum.ciently large to enable them to send ten or twelve men this year.

The Chicago meet this year will be held on May 26, and if the necessary $3000 is raised California will be represented by an athletic team which, from all indications, promises to be the strongest of any state in the union. While these men will total points for their own schools and not for the state as a whole, if they do as well in Chicago as they are doing here at home they will make the east sit up and note that California high school athletes represent the class of the country.

Two years ago Elmer Boyden of Vallejo High School, California, went to Chicago on money subscribed by his own schoolmates. Alone and unheralded he arrived, but when the meet was over his fame was broadcasted throughout the land. He had won the 440 in close to record time, captured the half mile under two minutes and won the broad jump with a leap of better than 22 feet. His fifteen points had given his school second place in the meet, only three points behind the winner.

The country realized that California had at least one prep athlete.

Last year four Southern California high schools were among the 200 that competed, and all placed above ninth. Cedar Rapids, Iowa, with an unusually strong team, won the meet with 23 points. Bud Houser gave Oxnard a tie for third with 14 points, winning the shot put and discus and placing third in the hammer and fifth in the javelin. He set a new world's high school record in the shot put of 56 feet.

Huntington Beach, California, was second with 17 points. Monrovia was seventh with 9½ and San Fernando, represented by Hershall Smith, placed ninth with 9 points. Oxnard, Monrovia and San Fernando were represented by but one athlete. Huntington Beach sent five.

Although the Chicago meet counts five places with points worth 5, 5, 3, 2 and 1, it is very seldom that one school piles up 23 points. While virtually every athlete which California would send east this year should place, it is more significant still that both Hollywood and Huntington Beach would stand an excellent chance of winning the meet.

With the right kind of breaks, Huntington Beach could score 20 points, which ought to win a meet of this kind. Milton Nash would rate favorite to win the 440. That starts the team with five points. In the high hurdles, Nichols should place at least third with Bickmore fourth. Nichols runs the highs in 15½ seconds, and Bickmore has been timed in 15 7-10. Morton Kaer of Red Bluff, California, would probably beat them both and one dark horse must be allowed for. Ten points.

Kaer runs the low hurdles in 25 flat and ought to win that event, leaving Nichols of Huntington Beach about two points for fourth place. Bickmore should place second to Smith of San Diego for four points in the pole vault, and Nichols, who clears 12 feet, ought to count on at least one point. Seventeen points, Nichols has a chance for two in the high jump and Elliott may grab one in the broad jump. That totals 20 points and a probable victory.

Hollywood could count on about 18 points in the Chicago meet. Coyn's 48 feet should win the shot put and as the high jump was won at 5 feet 10 last year, Turner's 6 feet 1 inch ought to assure him of five points. Meeks leaps 22 feet and should place second in the broad jump. Barnes counts two in the pole vault and Smith gets the same number in the quarter mile. Eighteen points won the meet in 1921, so Coach Bill Page would stand a very good chance of putting across a victory for Hollywood.

Banta, of this city, is to be one of the horses to enter the pony express celebration to be held in September from St. Joseph, Mo., to San Francisco. "HOLD THAT LINE!" IS BIG FEATHER IN OXY'S CAP

EAGLE ROCK, May 11.—"Hold That Line!" the three act musical comedy which has been in the process of production for some time under the auspices of the alumni association of Occidental college, will be produced in the Philharmonic Auditorium on the afternoon of May 18. On the 17th of May the first showing will be made in Franklin auditorium.

This is the largest production ever attempted by the musical comedy fraternity of Occidental and marks a distinct stepping stone in the climb upward for recognition of Mr. Laurence Cook, '21, composer of a number of feature plays. This musical comedy, a picturesque, colorful, and harmonious picture of Occidental College staged in the monster Philharmon-excitement, is rated as the finest work which Mr. Cook has to his credit.

The cast includes thirty-five talented "footlighters" from the alumni and present student body. Twenty girls and twelve boys are included in the chorus. The girls and the boys as well, will appear in frequent changes of stunning costumes which are rated by the school news-sheet as being calculated to "make Gloria Swanson whimper with envy." The chorus has been trained in all the latest steps and poses and the entire production will reflect the polish of a first-class professional musical comedy.

The upper grade high school students of all Southern California will be the guests of Occidental on the 18th when the production is life glorified with romance and ic auditorium. The affair will be one of the biggest boosts for Occidental among the prospective high school graduates that has ever been put on by any college.

A number of boxes have been reserved at the afternoon performance for notables of Hollywood and Los Angeles interested in the excellence of the production which the college students have so wholeheartedly labored to make the acme of amateur musical comedy.

The performance in Franklin auditorium will come as the climax to the Alumni day celebration.

PETER L. FERRY GETS LAST KICK OUT OF MULES

Wins Protesters to Street Improvement If Camp Is Moved

A compromise was reached Thursday night at the meeting of the Glendale city council between Peter Ferry and the residents on East Acacia avenue, who were protesting against the grading camp that he maintains on his East Acacia property. This consisted of Mr. Ferry agreeing to move his camp within one year, providing the protestants present at the meeting last night would work for the opening of Park avenue to Adams street from its present terminus and would do nothing that would in any way hinder the opening of that avenue.

Thus the disagreement that has existed between these Glendale people for the past several months ended in a veritable love feast. Everybody connected with the case is happy, and as one of the protestants said: "We can still be good friends and everyone will be happy."

When the matter was brought up last night, Mr. Ferry, in addressing the council, stated that he could, if he desired, keep the matter in the courts long after the opening of Park avenue. Councilman Horn took exception to Mr. Ferry's attitude in this matter, whereupon Mr. Ferry stated that he was willing to do anything within reason in the matter. It is a big job to move his camp, he said, and for that reason it would take him some time to find a location and move his outfit.

CITY COUNCIL TO FIGHT SEWER BILLS IN LEGISLATURE

state of California, assembly bills Nos. 147, 190, 191 and senate bill No. 704, all of which bills were introduced without notice to officials of the cities to be affected thereby; and

Whereas, the enactment into law of said bills would be dangerous to the health and prosperity of the cities in Los Angeles county and would delay and seriously obstruct the building of the new outfall sewer, which the citizens of the city of Los Angeles demand be completed as soon as possible; and

Whereas, the passage of said bills would transfer the control of the proceeds of the $12,000,000 sewer bond issue voted by the people of Los Angeles on August 29, 1922, from the city officials of the city of Los Angeles to the county officials of the county of Los Angeles, which is in violation of the rights vested in the municipal corporation of Los Angeles by the constitution of the state of California; and

Whereas, the passage of said bills would greatly delay the construction of a new outfall sewer and involve the city in expensive and prolonged litigation;

Therefore, be it resolved, that the mayor and council of the city of Glendale hereby approve the action of the city of Los Angeles in its efforts to bring about the veto of said bills, and joins with it in an appeal to the governor of the state of California, requesting that he veto said bills, and that the city clerk be, and is hereby authorized and directed to transmit by telegraph this resolution to the governor of the state of California.

"The Fastest Growing Firm in California—There's a Reason"

'PAIR OF SIXES' GOES BETTER THURSDAY EVE

Second Night's Performance Even Better Than That of Wednesday

The verdict of Thursday night's audience on the sparkling comedy, "A Pair of Sixes," presented in the auditorium of Glendale High by members of the senior class and directed by Harold Brewster, head of the dramatic section of the English department, confirmed that of the matinee audience on Wednesday, as one of the best dramatic performances that has been seen on any stage in Glendale. There is not a serious line in it, and the action is all snappy and consistent.

Allen Pollock was regarded by most patrons as the star of the show, and his careful interpretation of the part of the butler in his business partner's house brought howls of laughter. His "turning of the tables" both literally and figuratively upon his friend showed excellent change of character only equalled by his self-assurance in the first act.

The comedy of the irate partner, George Jansen, was done with a sincerity that made one wonder if they would ever speak to each other again. George has a distinct talent as a comedian and from his very first entrance dominated every scene in which he appeared.

As the attorney of the partners, Harry Bennett showed a suave poise characteristic of the individual he was supposed to be. Harry lost his own personality and developed a stage character that stood out in bold relief against the quarreling of his clients.

Charlotte Winsel, as the typical American girl, lived up to the requirements of the leading lady and was especially good in her scenes with Mr. Vandeholt and T. Boggs Johns. Her solution of the problem in the play was one of the high spots of the production.

To be an hysterical wife and not to miss a single line of the comedy was the difficult task of Elaine Buttrud, who was cast as Mrs. Nettleton. Miss Buttrudd showed a delightful stage presence and an easy grace in her early scenes and took down the house in her nervous hysteria, yet there was none of the whine that usually accompanies such an interpretation of the jealous wife.

The character comedy part was carried by Helen Sherwood, as the "'Omely Henglish Maid," and her vain attempts to win the butler added much to a thoroughly funny situation. Her exit in the third act brought forth a round of applause.

The gum-chewing typist of Alice Farrow was equally well done and shared honors with the other distinct character bits in the first act. Everts Smits, though receiving his part only last Saturday, played the bookkeeper with business-like seriousness and aided much in delivering the plot lines of the scene. John Judd deserves honorable mention for his humorous portrayal of the office boy and George Juett made an excellent business man. Ralph Van Hoorebeck, as the nervous and dashing salesman, got applause both on his entrance and his exit and carried his part with a breezy manner that made it stand out.

All the characters were sure of themselves and there were none of the rough spots of a first performance. Every grouping was a picture; every piece of business showed careful rehearsal and much of the credit for the success of the show should be given to Harold Brewster who not only devoted his time to perfecting the performance but also designed the scenery and painted the set. The beautiful tapestry used in the second and third acts was made by Miss Crandall's art class.

The settings featured the impressionistic idea of suggesting the room rather than attempting to be too realistic in detail. The settings were simple, rich and effective, serving as neutral background for the actors.

The cast in order of their appearance was as follows:

Miss Sally Parker.....Alice Farrow
Krome.....Evert Smits
Jimmy.....John Judd
Mrs. George B. Nettleton.....Elaine Buttrud
George B. Nettleton....George Jansen
T. Boggs Johns.....Allan Pollock
Tony Toler....Ralph Van Hoorebeck
Miss Florence Cole..Charlotte Winsel
Mr. Applegate.....George Juett
Thomas J. Vanderholt..Harry Bennett
Coddles.....Helen Sherwood

Friday evening the show will be repeated and tickets are going like the proverbial hot cakes.

Fools in glad rags are often permitted to rush in where unlaundered hobos would be knocked down and dragged out.

NEIGHBORHOOD ROW IN COURT

EAGLE ROCK, May 11.—Six small claims cases have been listed for the Saturday morning court session. Another complaint has come in from a resident of the Satsuma and Sycamore district, and with the other two charges which have been filed from this same neighborhood, it will be taken up before Judge H. I. Cruzan tomorrow. The six persons involved in the carious charges, and counter-charges, will all be called in Saturday morning to settle the difficulty as to who threw the bachelor buttons and with what insulting intent the act was commited, and who slandered whom. The entire matter will be thrashed out in an endeavor to send the neighbors back to their homes at peace with one anotehr once more.

Forty traffic violators have also been tagged for this week.

WHICH SHALL IT BE?

By Charles H. Shinn,
Forest Service

We have been reading the recent articles by Chief Forester Greeley, which are like clarion blasts arousing the American people to a sense of the realities. So are the recent utterances by Secretary of Agriculture Wallace and the President's proclamation. We have also been studying about a hundred recent reports, pamphlets and magazine articles which emphasize the pressing need of rapid and scientific restoration of cutover lands which were once covered with splendid forest growth. Professor Russell Watson of Michigan, who graduated from the Forest Department of the Washington state university, gives some startling figures which deserve the attention of all citizens, especially of those states which still have large timbered areas, natural and state forests, and therefore something to start with.

But Professor Watson reports the cost in Michigan of completely building forests in state forest work there on 175,000 acres has had 20 years' trial. He says that intensive forest plantings succeed best when done in bodies of about 25,000 acres. He says the counties on the cutover, once-forested areas are pratically bankrupt, and that hundreds of once-thriving towns have disappeared. Five hundred forest units and sixty years' time to restore the communal forests on some twelve million acres in this one state of Michigan is the biggest sort of a warning against ignorant, uncontrolled lumbering on private lands in states which still have timber.

All this, in full detail, one gets in the "Forest Club Quarterly," published in Seattle. Summed up, it says, "If you do not practice forestry you will go bankrupt."

In conclusion: Michigan has 12 million acres of land that is fit only for the growth of timber. Every acre must be replanted. California has millions of "cutover" acres, and millions more acres of foothill land totally unfit for farming, but capable of growing valuable hardwoods. "Plant more trees" must be our slogan.

BIG DEMAND FOR ELECTRICAL GOODS

D. L. Larkin of Good-housekeeping Shop, Says April Business Large

Electrical appliances are much in demand, according to D. L. Larkin, proprietor of the Good Housekeeping Shop, 140 South Brand boulevard, who opened his place of business here April 1.

Recent improvements have just been completed at this shop, including the new balcony, which is to be used as a kitchen display room. At the present time, Mr. Larkin has a line of fine kitchen tables and refrigerators which he will place on the balcony.

A splendid electrical Appliance display will be made by the Good Housekeeping Shop at the Glendale Merchants' Industrial Exposition. Mr. Larkin states that to those interested in electrical appliances, including washing machines, vacuum sweepers, and other household conveniences, this exhibit will be of special interest.

OPENING DAY IS HUGE SUCCESS FOR M. & L.

New Shoe Store at 116-A South Brand Hits High Places

Hundreds of Glendale patrons visited the shoe store of McClellan & Long, at 116-A South Brand boulevard, Thursday, when the formal opening was held.

This new firm, which specializes in ladies' shoes and hose, carrying a full line of up-to-date styles and novelties, was the scene of much activity Thursday afternoon. Each lady visiting the store was presented with a beautiful and fragrant carnation.

"Judging by the great number who patronized our store Thursday," said K. S. Long, "our ladies' specialty shop is filling one of the big needs of Glendale."

"MIGHTY LAK' A ROSE" AT THE T. D. & L.

The costumes worn by Dorothy Mackaill in the Edwin Carewe First National release, "Mighty Lak 'a Rose," now at the T., D. & L. Theatre, afford striking contrast. From the poorest and shabbiest of little dresses to the most exquisite gowns is the order. In the first scenes of the picture she appears garbed as a little orphan girl in the dun colored frocks of a non-descript character and skimpy as to material. These frocks were carefully planned and made by Dorothy and her mother, thus giving a home-made appearance that could not be found in the cheapest ready-made dresses.

Gorgeous apple green charmeuse worn by Dorothy later in the picture, reveals the real beauty of the actress. Elaborately filigreed with silver and crystal and caught over the right shoulder with a wreath of delicately hued silk flowers, it is a tribute to the dressmaking art. It is of the regal type of gown most popular during the days of Queen Elizabeth, yet in the execution of detail it strikes a strictly modern note. With this gown Dorothy wears silver evening slippers. The green material matches the artist's eyes and enhances their depth. With her hair worn high and a $30,000 evening cape of chinchilla, Dorothy is as entrancing to the eye as a gorgeous butterfly just emerged from a drab cocoon.

The dignified business man tripped on the platform of the "L" and a roll fell from the paper bag he had cuddled up under his newspaper.

It rolled along into the car as only a hardbaked roll can roll. The man assumed an air of unconcern, but passengers smiled and followed the course of the roll with sporting interest. It rolled to the feet of three girls in the corner and as the business man unfolded his newspaper, he heard a giggle and scented mischief.

There was a whispered consultation among the three maidens and then one approached with the roll. "I think this is yours, sir," she said. But the dignified man was ready for her. "Thank you," he replied, "but I beg as a favor that you will retain it as a tribute to your honesty."

The two "star" ladies each of whom considered herself the principal "star," were attending the first rehearsal of a new and thrilling drama.

The producer distributed the "parts."

"My dear," said the tall, beautiful, fair-haired heroine. "In the first scene I have to walk off the stage at the rear, while you remain facing the audience. What is your cue to go on with your line?"

The dark haired villainess smiled sweetly.

"Why, dear," she replied without hesitation, "the look of satisfaction on the faces of the audience."

DID YOU EVER STOP TO THINK--

By E. R. WAITE
Secretary Shawnee, Oklahoma Chamber of Commerce

THAT fair competition is the life of trade?

THAT if all citizens of a city do not stand together they will have no standing anywhere?

THAT they must not live in the days of yesterday, but in the days of today and tomorrow?

THAT to do so they must pull together, work together and keep pace with the progress of today and tomorrow.

THAT in most cities there is quite a gap between what the city is and what it should be.

THAT it takes men of vision and spirit to build a city?

THAT cities without leaders start nowhere and get nowhere?

THAT many cities have men who should be leaders that live only in the days of the past?

THAT others have leaders who live in the present and work for the future; these are men of vision and real leaders.

THAT all citizens should cooperate with these men of vision?

THAT better times are coming?

THAT most cities need more of the boosting spirit?

THAT A REAL BOOSTER WON'T EVER SAY ANYTHING IN A DISPARAGING WAY ABOUT HIS HOME CITY?

ANCIENT EGYPTIAN KINGS BURIED IN FRENCH SHRINE

[By Associated Press]

PARIS, May 10.—Recent investigation has disclosed the novel fact that a number of Egypt's royal dead are interred under the famous Bastille, shrine of France's freedom.

It appears that Champollion, the noted French archaeologist and inventor of the key to Egyptian heirogiyphics, years ago sent a number of mummies from Egypt to the Louvre. Egyptology was then in its infancy, and doubtless sufficient precautions had not been taken to retain the mummies in their original state. When the royal remains arrived in Paris it was found impossible to place them in the museums, as had been intended, and in 1630 they were buried in the Gardens of the Louvre.

Then followed the stormy days at the end of July, when the population of Paris rose in protest against the ordinances of King Charles X. Fighting took place near the Louvre and Tuileries, and the bodies of those killed were buried where they fell. It is recorded that in the course of this task one of the citizens struck with his spade a skull which he thought his spade a skull which he thought ere of St. Bartholomew, but which was in reality that of one of the Pharaohs buried a few months before.

When the revolution had been accomplished the new government decided to commemorate the event by the erection of a column, and the remains of the victims buried in the royal gardens were exhumed and placed beneath the new column in the Place de la Bastille. The bones of the dead Pharaohs were transferred with those of the Parisians who had risen to defend their rights, and still lie beneath the monument in the midst of one of the busiest squares of Paris.

YEAR'S DRUG RAIDS IN NEW YORK NET $2,000,000 IN DOPE

Police Commissioner Enright, at right, and Dr. Carleton Simon, in center, inspecting part of $2,000,000 dope collection before destroying it.

Dope seized in 2,471 raids by the New York narcotic squads and other police in the past year and valued at $2,000,000 has just been destroyed by the police department. Dr. Carleton Simon conducted the raids. The law does not permit giving drugs so seized to hospitals.

MRS. MAXWEL TO MRS. MAXWELL TO SISTERHOOD

A large attendance was present at the annual meeting of the Sisterhood Class of the First Methodist Church, held yesterday afternoon in the church parlors.

Preceding the social hour that was enjoyed, the election of officers took place. Mrs. W. A. Maxwell was elected president; Mrs. C. H. Godfrey, vice-president; Mrs. K. E. Laas, secretary; Mrs. J. L. De Laney, treasurer, and Miss Ethel Trowbridge, assistant treasurer.

Following the election of officers Mrs. Harry Rasmus, Jr., presented two delightful musical numbers, "Lullaby" and "Grey Day," accompanied by her husband.

The next event was the introduction of the bride of the class, one of the popular members and workers in the children's department, Mrs. L. W. Babcock, formerly Mrs. E. D. Wright, who was married last Friday. Mrs. Anna Goss, an elderly friend to the bride, gave her a most charming introduction, after which Mrs. S. B. Warner presented Mrs. Babcock with a number of dainty gifts from members of the class.

The latter part of the afternoon was devoted to the attention of those who are going away for the summer, and was conducted as a farewell meeting in their honor. Those who are planning to leave for the summer are Mrs. S. B. Warner, Mrs. Margaret Webb, Mrs. Kate Drug, all of whom have chosen Iowa as their destination; and Mrs. B. F. Geiger and Mrs. F. A. Trowbridge, who will leave for Chicago.

The retiring officers, Mrs. J. P. Lampert, Mrs. W. A. Maxwell, Mrs. L. P. Clover, Mrs. K. E. Laas, Mrs. H. L. Delaney and Mrs. T L. Brown acted as hostesses for the afternoon. Refreshments of ice cream and cake were served.

THE MARKETS

[By Associated Press]

NEW YORK, May 11.—Resumption of selling by bear traders combined with some profit-taking on the part of recent purchasers brought about another reaction in the price of industrial stocks on today's market. Railroads showed consistent strength in belated reflection of record car loadings and unusually favorable March earnings. Sales approximated 820,000 shares.

The Once Over

BY H. I. PHILLIPS

GOLF AND GOLF CLUBS

The golf season is on. Business men are putting on their short pants once again. Wives are kissing their husbands good-by for the summer, the country club lockers once more resound with arguments over fair prices for Scotch, and from hill and dale come the sounds of peerless prevaricators lying about their scores.

* * *

Golf is the only game in the world at which a man can get worse the longer he plays.

* * *

It is played with a ball, some woolen stockings, a half dozen sticks, a set of excuses, an irrepressible thirst, and an utter disregard for truth and veracity.

* * *

In the words of George Jean Nathan, golf is "a little oninon pursued by a big one." A number of little pills chased by a lot of big pills. One egg after another.

* * *

A golf ball is several ounces of gutta-percha rolled into the only form in which it will bring from seventy-five cents to a dollar and a half from a man in his right senses.

* * *

The idea is to smack the ball full amidships with a club and see how far it will go without further assistance. One of these balls can be sent from Los Angeles to New York by parcel post for less than a dime, but it costs the average golfer from $25 to $30 to send one around an eighteen hole golf course.

* * *

These balls do not care much for the game and have an incurable tendency to hide. They love the brush, but hate the great wide open spaces. Every time one of 'em hides successfully it sets the owner back a dollar or so.

* * *

A golf ball that could sell for ten cents was put on the market last year, but it proved very unpopular, due to the fact that it made it possible for a man to play golf and still buy food and lodging for his wife and children.

* * *

Golf to be good must be prohibitive. The minute you make it cheap you throw it open to a class of people who may come in and play really well in long pants, a flannel shirt and derby hat.

* * *

The hardest thing about golf is the dues. The dues at the average club run higher than most of the scores, which is higher than you have any idea.

* * *

The next hardest thing about golf is the membership committee. Nobody is taken into a golf club who can easily be kept out. When you put in an application for election to a golf club the membership committee gets the idea you are running for president. It delves into your life and family history way back to the time your wife's aunt's great grandmother's sister Sarah ran away with the beer wagon driver.

* * *

This elopement will keep you out. If Sarah had run off with a Scotch whisky drummer it would have been all right.

* * *

It takes about seven years to get by the golf club membership committee, although six is considered par.

* * *

Warts will keep you out of the ultra smart country clubs. So will salt rheum, rickets, mastoids, boils, chilblains or a cast in either eye. Buck teeth, prominent ears, bunions and loss of thirst will also render you non plus pluribus unum and pate de foie gras.

* * *

You can't pass the membership committee of a golf club if you stutter. Once you get in, however, they expect you to stutter.

CENTRAL P.-T. A. CLOSES ITS WORK

The last meeting of the year of the Central Avenue P.-T. A. which was held Thursday afternoon at the school was one of the best of the year and most largely attended.

At the business session which preceded the program, reports were submitted by retiring officers and committee chairmen which showed that excellent work had been done.

Officers for the coming year were then elected as follows:

President, Mrs. O. G. Thompson; vice president, Mrs. R. L. Young; secretary, Mrs. F. W. Line; treasurer, Mrs. D. F. Reichard; auditor, Mrs. L. H. Van Hoorebeke; historian, Mrs. L. H. Thompson; parliamentarian, Mrs. W. G. Lauderdale.

These officers will be installed at the June picnic which will be held by the Glendale Federation of Parent-Teacher associations and attended by all the P.-T. A.s of the city.

Following the business session mothers and children went out onto the grounds where a program of games and races was given by the children. Following these contests, refreshments of punch and wafers were served.

LITTLE SON COMES TO MR. AND MRS. H. B. LYNCH

A baby son was born this morning, May 11, to Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Lynch of Tujunga, formerly of Glendale, at a Los Angeles hospital.

CRYSTAL EARRINGS

Exquisite in design and with delicate figures etched upon the surface, earrings of cloudy crystal are among the loveliest ones displayed.

EDISON COMPANY SEEKS POWER LINE SITE OF THE CITY

An application to purchase a strip of land 170 feet wide through the city's property at the rear of Glendale-Verdugo park, this strip totaling about five acres of ground, was made to the Glendale city council by the Southern California Edison Electric company Thursday night.

The purpose of the company in asking the city to set a price on this strip is that it may have the land for the location of its high power line from the Big Creek electric plants to the substation in Eagle Rock canyon.

The members of the council will go over the ground in the near future so that the matter of setting a price on this land may be handled intelligently.

The matter of this application was referred to the committee of the whole.

KAFATERIA SHOE SALE ENDS NEXT MONDAY EVENING

The big $3.00 shoe sale which the Kafateria Shoe Store, 126 North Brand, is putting on this week will close Monday night. This sale has been one of the best the Kafateria has ever held for the reason that some of the biggest values ever offered are to be given the public at the low price of $3.

The selection of high grade men's shoes is large and according to Mr. Cushman, the live wire manager, the former prices ranged from $5 to $8. The large display counters show the shoes and there is most anything wanted in this line. Remember the sale closes Monday night.

Mrs. Gardina Armitage, who has been visiting for several weeks with her sister, Mrs. George Montgomery of 500 Kenneth Road, left yesterday for her home in Montreal. Mrs. Armitage will stop in Colorado on her way east.

Rev. Clifford A. Cole was summoned to Whittier Wednesday to address a meeting that evening of Christian church folk who wanted some expert advice on how to conduct a church building campaign.

FISH FOOD NOW AT BEST THESE HOT DAYS

Direct Shipments Here From Fisherman to Local Consumer

Dieticians and sea fish are working in conjunction these days. So it seems, from glancing at the fish market, and noting the lowering of prices in all kinds of fish, and then taking the advice of the dietician, who says that fish is the ideal summer food, because it contains a very small amount of fat.

August Ebsen, proprietor of the Rock Bottom market at 133 South Central, states that his shipments of fish are received direct from San Pedro and San Francisco, thereby eliminating the middleman. He calls attention to the fact that prices in fish are about one-third lower than they were two weeks ago, due to the excellent biting of all kinds of fish during the recent warm weather.

The Rock Bottom Market carries a full line of cooked meats and delicatessen goods also, which are of especial interest to the housewife who seeks to eliminate as much of her cooking during the hot weather as possible.

PREMIUM PUBLIC MARKET GROWS RAPIDLY

David Donwell Disposes of 83 Whole Beeves During April

The Premium Public Market, 123 North Glendale, was the clearing house for eighty-two carcasses of beef during the month of April, according to the account given by David Donwell, proprietor.

This vast amount of meat was disposed of through the flourishing wholesale and retail trade carried on by the Premium Public Market.

Mr. Donwell announces that the market is to be incorporated the latter part of this month, for $150,000, all paid up stock, with no stock for sale. This represents some of the largest interests to be placed in the market and grocery business outside of the system of chain stores.

Aside from the cost of the building, which is in excess of $50,000, large amounts have been expended in equipment, which adds to the efficiency of the institution. A huge refrigerator plant valued at more than $15,000, which provides a freezing temperature for the refrigerator proper, which measures 20 by 30 feet, is one of the features.

An electrical saw which is utilized in cutting roasts, chops and steaks is one of the labor saving devices. Other electrical devices include slicing and grinding machines, which are time savers as well as more satisfactory in other respects.

Mr. Donwell makes his home in Glendale. He purchased property about six months ago at 718 East Raleigh.

GLENDALE MARKET DELIVERS TWICE EVERY DAY

Plans to Convenience the Housewives During Hot Weather

"Two delivery services a day, one at 9 o'clock in the morning, and the other at 3 in the afternoon are proving to be of special convenience to the housewife, especially during the hot weather," stated Richard Roberts, manager and one of the three proprietors of the Glendale Market, 632 East Broadway.

The Glendale Market is one of the oldest firms in the city, and is considered one of the best equipped. All three proprietors are Glendale property owners. Dr. T. C. Young, prominent local physician, and A. L. Baird, the other two proprietors, are both well known here, and hold financial interests in the market. Mr. Roberts, the manager, has been with the firm for 12 years, and says that the Glendale Market thinks that it is just about it."

NEW GROCERS ARE BOOSTING FOR GLENDALE

Take Over Sebastian Store on North Glendale Avenue

"Pleased with the business prospects of Glendale," is the word that comes from I. R. Allen and L. Sable, new proprietors of the Sebastian grocery store, 145 North Glendale avenue. The new proprietors took over the business the first of the week, and are enthusiastic Glendale boosters after one week in business here.

Mr. Allen and Mr. Sable, who are both experienced grocery men, are planning to locate in Glendale. They state that they are both anxiously awaiting the day when they will find a suitable location.

CHEAP CHERRIES ARE COMING TO MARKET

Manager of Chaffee Store Declares the Crop is Very Big

Cherries will be cheaper this year than last, states T. L. Totman, manager of Chaffee's branch store at 115 North Brand boulevard. "Cherries are more plentiful this year than they have been for the last four years," he stated. "And therefore it is probable that the price will be much lower.

According to Mr. Totman, local lettuce is at its best now, and northern iceberg lettuce is just coming in. Pismo peas are now available, as are the Bermuda onions. Wax beans and Kentucky wonders are at their heighth, and loquats and apricots are coming on nicely.

"The hot weather will have a tendency to advance the prices on oranges and lemons, but lower it on berries," Mr. Totman said. "All kinds of berries, practically, are available and cheaper at the present time."

FRUIT IS PRE-COOLED
[By Associated Press]

MOUNTAIN VIEW, Calif. -- A pre-cooling plant is in operation here and it opens a new market for fresh fruits and vegetables, according to experts. Formerly the canneries and dehydrators were buyers, but under the new pre-cooling process, it is said, fruits and vegetables are cooled at between 32 and 38 degrees, all latent heat being removed and then sent east by freight, being iced at stations en route.

OBSERVATIONS

BY A GLENDALE OLD TIMER

One of the best known and most beloved ministers of Glendale is preaching a series of nine sermons in his church on Sunday evenings on the general topic, "Is the World Growing Better?" The first of these sermons referred to the safety and perpetuity of the American home, the second to our outlook as a nation. Other phases of the question will be treated in the subsequent discourses and each one of them will be published in the Glendale Daily Press—the Tuesday edition following the delivery of the sermon. This is a matter of vital interest to every man and woman in the community and every sermon should be carefully read and pondered over, if you are not able to hear it delivered. The speaker, while he frankly avows his belief in the affirmative of his proposition, yet, unlike the lawyer who is determined to win his case, whether just or not, he is careful to give both sides fair presentation. I believe, with this preacher that the world's moral tone and outlook are far in advance of the conditions of 100 years ago and that right is slowly gaining the ascendancy over might.

The recently planned visit of Frederick Warde to Glendale brought to my memory a vision of my first view of this great actor, which was about 35 years ago. I saw him first as "Virginius" in Sheridan's play of that name. Mittens Willet, I think it was, supported him as Virginia, and she was then at the height of her beauty and charm, as well as a fine actress. Warde was magnificent in his portrayal of the stern father whose virgin daughter was demanded by the lustful emperor, Appius Claudius, and when faced by the cringing despot he pressed the fainting Virginia to his heart and boldly challenged Claudius with the words, "Look me in the eyes and you can have her," the audience was fairly breathless, so wrought up were all with the vibrant tones of Warde. I saw him again as "Belphegor" in "The Mountebank," but there was no chance in this play for him to rise to the heights of sublime tragedy as in "Virginius." The movie shows, no matter how tragic, can never work an audience up to the pitch of tense emotion that the spoken drama furnishes, especially when, to a commanding personality is added the magic of a deep, resonant voice. Such actors as Edwin Booth, Lawrence Barrett, Frederick Warde, Tomasso Salvini, Thomas Keene, Louis James and many others thrilled their hearers fully as much by the intonations of their voices in the tragic scenes as by their wonderful acting. I had the extreme good fortune to see Booth and Lawrence Barrett in "Othello," with Barrett in the title role, while Booth delineated the scheming Iago, but another play I witnessed, "Francesca da Rimini," in which three stars of the first magnitude appeared, was an equally outstanding epoch of my theatre-going days. The three were Lawrence Barrett as Lanciotto, the hunchback husband of Francesca, which latter character was magnificently played by Marie Wainwright, the second of the trio, and Louis James, who took the part of the jester. A very handsome young actor of considerable histrionic ability but whose name I regret to say I cannot now recall, was cast as Paoli, the prepossessing and fascinating younger brother of Lanciotto, who wins the love of Francesca. The final scene, where the wronged husband, Lanciotto, stabs to death his wife and brother and then himself, is certainly grewsome enough to satisfy the most morbid taste.

Warde and Barrett were as diametrically opposed in disposition and habit as could well be conceived of. The former, kindly and companionable, in spite of the brooding shadow of his brother's awful crime that tinged his life with melancholy, with a good word for all in his company, was popular with players and audiences, from the opening of his career. Barrett, on the contrary, was reserved, gloomy and tyrannical and would go to considerable lengths to carry out his whims, even to his own disadvantage. The theatre in Terre Haute, Ind., where I saw the most of the plays I still remember so well, was an unusually large and well-appointed playhouse for a city of 25,000 people. It was part of a large business block owned by Wilson Naylor, an eccentric man of considerable wealth. His hands were badly mis-shapen from rheumatism and his temper was very uncertain. For some reason he was quite friendly with me, though ordinarily uncommunicative. He was easily angered and when his "dander was up" he'd say exactly what he thought, in the most torrid language, too. Mr. Naylor told me one time of a round he had with Lawrence Barrett the week previous, when that great tragedian played an engagement in the Naylor Theatre. Barrett had the reputation of giving all the annoyance possible to theatre managers and of demanding concessions impossible to grant. On the occasion in question Barett did not want to use all of the elaborate scenery generally employed in the presentation of the play, thinking he could save the expense of hauling both ways and of putting it in place in the theatre. He thought he could easily run a bluff on the manager of a small town theatre. But Mr. Naylor always gave close attention to the details of his theatre and personally assured himself that every piece of scenery necessary to a complete performance of a play was ready for use at a moment's notice. He noted the absence of some of Barrett's scenery and sharply asked why it was not in the theatre. Barrett replied, rather insolently, that a Terre Haute audience would not miss the scenery he was leaving out, and refused to send for it. Mr. Naylor at once informed him that the curtain would not rise until every piece of scenery was in the theatre. Barrett raged, stormed and cussed, but Mr. Naylor was adamant and finally, as 8 o'clock approached, Barrett backed down and hastily ordered the transfer company to rush the missing scenery from the station. This was done and when the curtain rose, half an hour late, every piece was ready for instant use. Barrett, though inwardly raging over his defeat, was too good an actor to slight any of his work, and the play scored a great success. After it was all over, Mr. Naylor told me, Barrett came into his office and made an apology for his bull-headed action. "I've been a d—d fool," he cried. "Yes," was the reply, "You've been a G— d—d fool." And so it ended.

In this commercial age some wonderful miracles (?) are wrought. For instance, one genius, under the guise of a philanthropic effort to help mankind to gain freedom from dietary errors, takes wheat, costing around 2 cents a pound, puts it through a roasting process, has it put up in neat packages of pasteboard or tin and then it sells at from 40c to 75c a pound. Of course he gets immensely wealthy in the process but that's a side issue with him, of course. Others use a similar alchemy on corn, wheat, oats, bran and various other products and reap an immense profit in the sale of breakfast cereals, health foods and the like. A carton printed in glaring colors and seductive literature and costing a fraction of a cent, enhances the price of the commodity contained therein from 25 to 75 per cent. But the great consuming public falls for it, so why refrain from supplying the demand, is the apparent reasoning of the manufacturers.

Dr. Frank Crane, in one of his thoughful and instructive articles published on the editorial page of the Daily Press, made the following statement: "John Brown did more toward arousing the country to the evils of slavery by getting himself killed than by anything he did during his lifetime. One of the tragic facts of this humanity is that we cannot be made to realize the necessity of getting rid of a shoe until it pinches. In the days of the saloon, it was almost impossible to arouse the community against its evil until somebody was murdered." Many of us old timers can testify to the literal truth of this statement. In the little Illinois city where I lived for a third of a century, the saloon had a strangle hold on the people, especially the business men, whose amazing shortsightedness in this matter was in direct contrast to their shrewdness in other things. Nearly all of them held to the strange belief that the abolition of the saloon would divert much trade to cities that maintained the plague spots. Yet not one of these men, who placed dollars above human life and happiness, would consent, if there was any way to get out of it, to the location of a saloon next to his place of business. I remember one particular case, where two business men were always violently opposed to the voting out of the saloons. Both owned large buildings, and these were separated by one business room, only. When it was proposed by the owner of this business room to rent it for a saloon, both of these violent advocates of the necessity of such hell holes, raged and stormed with indignation that such a thing be even considered. What, a saloon next to them? Never. It was right for such a beneficent institution to snuggle up against other business houses, but not theirs. Rare consistency, eh? One of these men had been a steady drinker for years and it was only when a prolonged debauch brought him to death's door that he swore off. His only sister died in misery after years of life with a drunken husband and her only child died from his neglect, yet the saloon was a necessity. Finally, after years of saloon domination, a young fellow went direct from one of these doors of iniquity, instigated by its proprietor and picked a fight with an uncle, his mother's brother. The nephew was shot and killed by the uncle. Then arose a storm of indignation and the saloons were voted out, in spite of the protests of many virtuous (?) business men. The blood of this promising young man was spilled to bring about this reform. But in two years all was forgotten and the saloon came back into its own again. I am quite certain that incidents like this have happened in thousands of cities. Yet today, there are a few persons so degraded as to wish for a return to such conditions.

Perhaps no actress of modern times has risen to fame under such adverse circumstances as beset Mrs. Leslie Carter, who is now, in a green old age, living over her many stage triumphs. Divorced by her husband, a staid business man of exemplary character, for open and flagrant violations of her marriage vow, the beautiful young woman decided to capitalize the notoriety gained in the court proceedings by going on the stage. Her first appearances showed such crude attempts at acting and such general ignorance of good English, that she was ridiculed by almost the entire press of the country. This only stung her pride and determined her to succeed in defiance of all obstacles. She studied hard and practiced faithfully, until she fairly forced recognition of her abilities. So far as is known she has lived a virtuous life for many years and she really deserves unstinted praise for overcoming the serious handicaps that would have daunted a less resolute character.

The little old railroad line on Glendale avenue that is soon to be changed from steam to electric power, has had rather a unique history. Built nearly 40 years ago as a narrow gauge line, it was quite a feeder at first for the then booming settlement of Glendale. But when the boom collapsed, in 1886 or '87, the railroad line suffered a decided eclipse. When the Salt Lake system bought it, about 10 years later, the gauge was standardized and a train service of one round trip a day was put on. Nobody traveled on the coach attached to the train unless he had a trunk to accompany him. It was cheaper to buy a ticket to Glendale from Los Angeles for 25 cents and get your trunk carried free than to pay the single fare of 15 cents on the P. E., as it used to be, and then given an express company 75 cents to transport your trunk. In those earlier days, the train would be stopped at any street corner for a passenger and his trunk to be unloaded. This line is unique in that it passes through one of the most beautiful and widely known cemeteries in all the west, Forest Lawn. And soon it will be no longer traversed by "steam kyars," as electricity will be substituted when the present owners, the Union Pacific company, change it to a trolly line to carry cars of the Glendale-Montrose line to a connection with the yellow cars.

WALL PAPER NOW BECOMING MORE POPULAR

H. T. Stevens, Glendale Wallpaper Dealer, Makes Assertion

Wallpaper is coming back into demand, more than it has been for many seasons, according to H. T. Stevens, proprietor of the Stevens Paint store, 217 East Broadway. In view of this fact, Mr. Stevens has made enlargements in his facilities for keeping a large variety on hand.

Mr. Stevens has had a huge row of shelves erected for this purpose. These measure 20 feet long by 12 feet high, and contain 132 bins, which will hold, on the average, 40 rolls of wallpaper each.

Mr. Stevens, who moved his paint store three weeks ago from 219 1-2 East Broadway, to his present location, says that he is very well pleased with his store, as it affords much more display room, including both window and floor space. He attributes the increase in sales to fact of having more room.

The floor in the display window is one feature of the paint store in which Mr. Stevens takes just pride. It is constructed of quartered oak, with an artistic inlaid border of dark walnut. Mr. Stevens states that there is not a prettier window to be found in Glendale.

HOW TO MEET THE ANT ON ATTACK

The first duty of every efficient housewife is to make her home clean and comfortable. No matter how immaculate it may be kept, a house cannot be comfortable as long as it is overrun with ants. Such an experience is entirely unnecessary, because a remedy is available that will not only drive every ant out of a house or store instantly—but which will make them stay out. In fact, its effect upon them is almost unbelievable—as they appear to shun with an uncanny dread the spot where the remedy has been applied.

This magic-like preparation can be obtained at any drug store under the name of Kellogg's ant paste. It is easily spread with a match or stick wherever ants are accustomed to appear. Just one application and your ant troubles are over.

To guard against disappointment it would be well not to simply ask for ant paste, but to be sure and specify Kellogg's—which is put up in a patented rattle-cap package.

CITIZENS OF TOMORROW

As a feature of the recent "Loyalty week" some hundred thousand boys marched down Fifth avenue, New York. They were hours in passing, but all the time there were throngs to watch them. In the parade were banners, perhaps inscribed with patriotic legends, but the boys themselves, determined, eager, erect, constituted the display that thrilled the heart. The citizens of tomorrow! Soon to be the men into whose hands must pass the conduct of affairs, it is most essential that there be awakened in their minds and nurtured there, a love of the principles on which this great government is founded.

New York, most populous of American cities, has a large foreign element. It has a startlingly large proportion of alien-hearted Americans. Writers there who have a certain distinction in letters, use their talents for the poisoning of public opinion. There are weeklies devoted to promotion of disloyalty, although such is not their proclaimed purpose. There are monthly magazines that do their utmost to bring not only the constitution, but respect for it, into contempt. They use the term "American" only as a reproach. They slander the government, publishing perverted and untrue accounts of its activities and objects. They deride American culture, and hoot derisively at the mention of American education. Some of them are pro-bolshevist, none is pro-American. In the late war they were treasonable in sentiment, and their sentiment has not changed.

It is necessary that something be done to offset the malign influence of these public enemies. One of the most helpful agencies is that of organizing boys. The Boy Scouts, Rangers, and similar bodies are potential for correcting the false beliefs that are bandied about by crafty propagandists or their dupes. To teachers in public schools there also is a fine opportunity for instilling the principles that mean a sane and devoted citizenship, proud of the country, quick to defend it against the assaults of an armed foe, or the more treacherous foes whose weapon is venom, and whose inspiration is hatred of the republic that makes the mistake of harboring them.

SOMEBODY SAID IT

It is a common thing to ascribe to Washington the oft' quoted warning against entangling European alliances. Historical papers reveal an expression of the sentiment in a paper of Jefferson's, not of the first president's. Now comes Prof. Samuel Flagg Bemis of Whitman college, Walla Walla, with the statement that the author of the phrase was Hamilton. This is an interesting, rather than an important fact. It confirms the theory that in those days European entanglements were recognized as something to be feared. Well they might have been. The United States was a new and weak experiment. The isolation possible in its beginnings was the buttress of its safety. Communication with Europe was slow and difficult. Commercial and diplomatic relationships were tenuous. Inter-dependence had not become manifest. England did not stagger under the blow when the Pilgrim fathers set sail. Had England sank into the sea, knowledge of the catastrophe could not have reached these shores for many weeks.

When the early statesmen were formulating their opinions touching the peril of entanglements, wise as they were, they could not have had in mind the conditions that prevail today. The handful of colonies has grown into the richest and most powerful nation of the globe. Its existence does not rest upon the whim of people across the sea. Were it to enter into any agreement with Europe it would enter as the most potent element of the combination. Therefore the old grounds for fear have passed away. The axiom of the eighteenth century or the beginning of the nineteenth, has no application to the twentieth. The isolationists of the present are not potential Washingtons, Jeffersons or Hamiltons. They are a coterie of the blind, trying to lead millions who have vision.

HOT WEATHER

This community has been having weather that to the people experiencing it seemed hot. But it was not hot. All things being relative, it was a comparatively comfortable or even delightful span. When the people of the east or of the middle west begin to wither and pant in their annual heated term, they would think such weather as, being sent here made natives grumble, was a boon from heaven. It would be regarded by them as ideal.

Southern California has become a summer resort because the false notion concerning its summers has been corrected. While elsewhere people are sweltering (sympathizing meanwhile with the poor Californians who must be suffering worse) here the nights are cool, inviting slumber. At noonday, in the direct rays of the sun, there is heat, but it is mild when the heat of other places is considered. The air itself never becomes so charged with heat as to be oppressive out of the glare of the sun. There is coolness in the shade, and when sunset approaches, the coolness is likely to become a chill against which light wraps are needed for protection.

In Philadelphia, for example a midday temperature of 90 above is almost unbearable, partly because it will be but a few degrees different at midnight. However high the temperature may go here, there are no resulting sunstrokes, no sense of aggravated discomfort, no thought of danger. Days that even the grumblers call hot are few, between then, long intervals with which the most captious could not find fault.

With old age comes the knowledge of lost opportunities.

WHEN CHINESE GET BAD

The exploit of Chinese bandits shows the desperate character of one element in the peculiar people of the Orient. As a rule the Chinese are peaceable. Considered as a nation they have withstood, without active resentment, more bullying and imposition than any other people of the world. Their honesty is proverbial. Yet from the Chinese come the most ruthless pirates that ever sailed the seas, and when they turn bandits, there is no limit to the outrages of which they are guilty. Even the small faction that in the United States engages in criminal activity, shows cunning and ferocity almost beyond belief.

It is impossible to surmise with any approach to certainty, what may be the result of the bandit assault on aliens. Certainly the assault is not to be ascribed to any sentiment entertained by the responsible government. The government is friendly, particularly towards Americans. Doubtless it will do its best to apprehend and punish the criminals, and the punishment will not be light. There is a chance that foreign troops may be sent in, but if so they will go with the kindest of feelings for China. In the past the presence of foreign troops in that country has been a direct threat to the rights of authority and perhaps to property rights.

China is a large, loosely amalgamated structure socially. It shows a desire to progress and is progressing. It would be unfair to blame it as a whole for the wanton wickedness of one outlaw band. Were the rule of this fixing blame to apply everywhere, not a nation on earth could maintain its moral standing.

A man may not say a word and still be a liar.

Light on the Crime Wave

By ESTELLE LAWTON LINDSEY

We in America have been blaming the war for the unprecedented wave of crime.

And now it appears that we have been unjust to the war; it is responsible for enough bad things, but even a war ought not to be made to answer for sins of which it is innocent.

Estelle Lawton Lindsey

Last night I read with deep interest an article by Sir Bazil Thompson, K. C. B., former assistant commissioner of metropolitan police, London, England. It opened my eyes and it should open the eyes of us all.

To begin with, England had more of the war than America; yet England has had no crime wave. Why? Because punishment in England is certain, once guilt is established.

Sir Bazil states that not more than 10 per cent of criminals are abnormal and that the bulk of them are the children of law-abiding parents, but relatives or associates or criminals have influenced them. A criminal is very much more likely to have a criminal older brother than a criminal father.

In short, it is association and not heredity which breaks down the moral barriers that stand between people and a criminal career.

This is score one for those who believe in the power of environment. A further score is the statement by the same authority that most criminals begin their downward careers before 21 and that the ages between 16 and 21, in other words, the formative years are those in which criminal habits are generally fixed.

What does all this mean to us? It means largely that we are suffering from a crime wave because of the uncertainty of our legal processes because we are careless about the conditions that surround adolescent boys and girls and because we are hopeless sentimentalists where criminals are concerned.

Admitting that crime increases during periods of economic depression, Sir Bazil still claims that certainty of punishment is the one sure deterrent from a criminal career.

However, seeing that association is admitted by this authority to be the most powerful factor in influencing boys to enter a criminal career, one can't help but wonder what influence a penitentiary is likely to have on a youth who, following his first offense, is locked up with professional criminals.

As an inconoclast Sir Bazil is fine; now some of us who are interested in the safety of society would like him to lay out a constructive program for reducing temptations in the interest of the young and those on whom the criminal young will prey.

THE RIGHT WORD

By W. CURTIS NICHOLSON

THE ANSWER IS "WHOM"

(Find the error in this article.)

Whom is the right word in the sentence submitted by Miss Raynor. The excerpt should read as follows: Replying to your letter of May 9, we wish to advise you that we have referred your complaint to our representative, whom (not who) we have requested to communicate with you and adjust the matter to your satisfaction.

The most easiest way to make it clear why whom is the right word is to take the little family of words, of which whom is a part, out of the sentence, and write them by themselves; as, whom we have requested to communicate with you and adjust the matter to your satisfaction.

Let us boil this down to the following: whom we have requested to communicate with you.

Next, these words should be written in their grammatical order; as, we have requested whom to communicate with you.

Compare this arrangement with the following sentence, and the reason for choosing whom instead of who will be apparent: We requested him (you would not say he) to communicate with you.

Vocabulary

"What would you call anything that is rich, sweet, and delicious; or delightful to any sense or to the mind?"

"Luscious; as luscious fruit; luscious odors. The word may also be applied to anything that is sweet and rich to excess, so as to cloy or nauseate; or that is fulsome; as, luscious flattery.

Queries

Abraham Eller, Chicago: "Will you kindly advise whether whoever or whomever is correct in the following sentence: 'This does not reflect credit on whoever (or whomever) is running things down there'?"

Answer: The right word is whoever. The relationship of this word to the other words of the sentence is not "on whomever," but "whoever is running."

THE LISTENING POST

By James W. Foley

JAMES W FOLEY

You go into the shop or store.
As you may choose to call it.
The purists would perhaps say shop.
We of the hoi polloi say store.

And a store means merely a place where certain things are kept.

Thus we speak of a store of wealth or a store of goods or a store of spirit.

* * *

So it is not important whether we say shop or store, as long as we make ourselves understood.

And having entered the shop or store we look at a certain article kept for sale or exchange.

At a bit of jewelry or lace or ornamental what-not.

* * *

And having seen the goods for sale and looked them over we ask the next natural question.

"What does it cost?"
"How much is it?"
"What is the price?"

* * *

Because we need to know how much of labor or money we have to exchange for it.

Nearly all exchanges being made in terms of money.

And money merely expresses the value of human labor.

Combined sometimes with the gift that nature makes to us.

* * *

She gives us metal from her hills.
Sun and shine and shower from her heavens.
Grass from her pastures.
Timber from her forests.
Fish from her seas.
Everywhere she is lavish with gifts.

* * *

But human labor is needed to gather her gifts.

So values are in the gifts of nature combined with human labor.

And we have to reckon values in buying goods or wares.

And having looked at the article for sale and learned the cost, we come to the next natural question.

But one that is not often enough asked:

"Can I afford to buy it?"

* * *

Can I afford to exchange money that is needed for some other and prior obligation?

Can I deprive some one in need that I may have something I can get along without?

Can I afford to gratify a whim for possession at the cost of money that would be better spent for something else?

* * *

Which brings us to the allegory we seek.

And that is that the world of being and desire and passion and all that is a kind of shop.

Where things are for sale.

Or exchange.

Pleasure and sport and flippancy and frivolity and a thousand and one gewgaws.

* * *

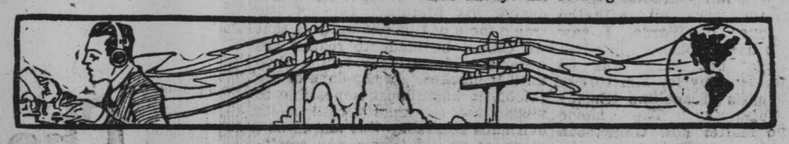
But all have to be paid for.

In health or in strength or in honor or one thing or another of value.

And so we might well ask in seeking what we call pleasure or the gratification of desire:

"What is the price?" and
"Can I afford to pay it?"

For always the settling time will come.



Songs of the Poets

Song—By Arthur Upson

Flame at the core of the world,
And flame in the red rose-tree;
The one is the fire of the ancient spheres,
The other is Junes to be;
And, oh, there's a flame that is both their flames
Here at the heart of me!

As strong as the fires of stars,
As the prophet rose-tree true,
The fire of my life is tender and wild,
Its beauty is old and new;
For out of the infinite past it came
With the love in the eyes of you!

THE WOMAN'S BODY

By DR. FRANK CRANE

FEW things are more important to the welfare of the race than that women should have strong, healthy and beautiful bodies.

The soul is of great importance, but up to date we have no dependable information about any souls that are not connected with bodies.

The woman's body is not only the source of life, but upon its condition depend the great issues of life, the physical well-being and the fineness of the human stock.

It is about time that this precious body shall be rescued from the murkiness of false sentiment and the clouds of ignorance under which it has been so long concealed.

Bernarr Macfadden, expert in physical culture, has written a book entitled "Womanhood and Marriage," in which he discusses with frankness, yet with perfect decency, the vital questions that concern woman's health.

It is the kind of book that both the girl and her mother ought to read that they may face intelligently the adventure of life well equipped.

It is of immense importance that nothing shall be done to break down that sanctity of modesty in which normal womanhood is enshrined, and yet it is of equal importance that the woman shall depend upon intelligence and idealism rather than upon ignorance and fear for her preservation.

Possibly this book may be attacked with distorted criticism, but as far as that is concerned the Bible itself has not been exempt from such assaults. The only thing erotic in this book will be what one reads into it.

Wells tells us that the two persistent questions before the race are sex and God. And just as we should not allow the quarrels of theologians to prevent us from thinking clearly and practically about God, so we should not allow vulgarity on the one hand or prudery on the other prevent us from ascertaining those facts of sex upon which rest such great issues of happiness in life.

Macfadden deals with his subject with antiseptic sureness.

"The glory of woman," he says, "is her strength. Strength means beauty; it means fitness for motherhood. No vital, enduring people can be mothered by weak women.

"As she nourishes the life of her offspring she is the nourisher therefore of the race. She must do more, however, than find herself. She must learn to glory in her womanly nature and through this to make the most of what has lain deeply hidden within her. It is only by making the most of herself that she can give the most to the world."

Besides this, every woman feels it her duty not only to maintain strength, but to attain beauty.

Beauty is the most potent influence upon ideals and it is the woman who is the priestess of beauty.

The constant effort of women to beautify themselves is not to be condemned. It is the working out of a normal and healthy instinct.

Any book such as this which gives practical advice to the woman on how to be strong and how to be beautiful is surely worth while.

EASTERN POINT OF VIEW

NOT PROPER NAVY WORK

[New York Tribune]

Intimations come frequently from Washington nowadays that the navy is to be used to make American shore waters "dry" out to the three-mile limit. Such suggestions are repugnant to naval traditions and practice, and are naturally not looked upon kindly by Secretary Denby.

The navy is a military arm. It is not maintained to repress smuggling. Congress provided a special instrument for this purpose—the revenue cutter service, combined with the life-saving service in 1915 to form the coast guard. It has a fleet of its own. The fleet easily can be enlarged if necessary. Its work, which is non-military, ought not to be shifted to the navy—an organization of another character, requiring a personnel of different qualifications and training.

The coast guard is under the treasury department. The revenue cutters are transferred to the control of the navy department in time of war. But in time of peace they patrol the coasts and are charged, among other things, with preventing illegal entry of merchandise. They have done this sort of duty ever since the old revenue cutter service was instituted and are the proper agency to do it now.

COMMENT ON DAY'S NEWS

By HENRY JAMES

It might as well be conceded that moving picture people are "different." They live in a peculiar atmosphere, and for the most part their contacts with the life about them does not touch that life in its normal condition.

HENRY JAMES

They are flattered with success or devoured of ambition. When they work, they work hard, in situations must trying, all things about them artificial. The stars make more money than they know what to do with. As a consequence they are led into all sorts of extravagances, extravagances of expenditure and of conduct. Those who desire to become stars seek to imitate the ones in advance of them.

Thus it is that when a movie star becomes married the step is regarded by observers as preliminary to divorce. That the alliance is to be lasting, or more than temporary, does not occur to anybody.

It is easy for such folk, elevated to a height that dizzies them, often rewarded far beyond their artistic merits, perhaps quite lacking in intelligence, to be led to yield to the temptations with which they are in constant touch.

There are exceptions, of course; thoughtful and cultivated men and women, to whom marriage and the other conventions have a meaning.

* * *

For an hour and a half a lawyer talked with representatives of the district attorney's office. His object was to have bail arranged for his client. The client is a woman who is said to have confessed to guilty knowledge of a murder. The offense is not bailable. The request of the lawyer was refused. Therefore the lawyer sent the woman back to her hiding place.

If the technical nonsense could be swept out of the situation the course of the law would be simple. It would consist of placing the lawyer in jail on the charge that he possesses guilty knowledge of a crime and is trying to shield the criminals.

The Detroit woman who married her father's gardener, and thus won the distinction of being disowned by her wealthy family, is reported to be very happy.

When the mother of the bride declares that she never will acknowledge the daughter, her position does not indicate that maternal affection is her long suit. Anyhow, the daughter, having lived with that mother forty-two years, ought to have been allowed to choose a new relationship at will.

* * *

At this writing it does appear as though Clara Phillips really had been found in Honduras. That is a long way from her native land and San Quentin, however.

Granting that the woman has been caught, the case presents some mystery. As to the manner of escape there is little question but that she was politely escorted to the front door of the jail, and bowed out. But how she got the means to travel extensively is a puzzle.

Here was a young woman most ordinary in appearance; intellectually to be classed, according to the current vernacular, as a dumbbell. She never had done anything worth while. She had married a man who seems to be of low mentality and no morals, and apparently had cared for him in her own tigerish fashion sometimes when not threatening to kill him. She breaks into publicity by a horrid and unprovoked murder, and at once she is a heroine. Why? Nobody knows.

She should have been hanged, but getting a lighter sentence, decided not to serve it. Honest folk desirous of traveling abroad might have been worried by lack of means. Not so this red-handed savage. She had funds in plenty. Who supplied them?

Sometimes strange incidents break the monotony of a ride over the paved highways of this community. Recently a man, in a type of machine ordinarily called a flivver, saw a limousine stopped at a corner he was approaching. As he drew nearer, he observed that five or six well dressed chaps, of about the college freshmen age and appearance, had climbed out of the big machine, and were fighting very busily and earnestly. Almost everybody was taking a wallop at the nearest head. One or two were trying to make peace. A woman sat in the front seat of the limousine, and didn't ever look around.

The man in the flivver drove on. The sound of battle died away. He really was curious about the matter, and yet he knew it was none of his business.

Herbert Wilson, generally called the millionaire mail robber, consents to accept his sentence, and will go to the penitentiary, an institution at which he is considerably over-due.

This is very kind of Mr. Wilson. It intimates to the thoughtful, however, that his million must have faded. It's a cold day when delay can't be contrived for a felon with a million plunks.

While being brought into court for resumption of his trial on a charge of murder "Tuffy" Lewis drew a gun and sought to kill his guard, but was overpowered.

The best practice as recognized by courts generally, is to divest a prisoner of guns and such things before putting him on trial for his life. The experience of listening to witnesses is likely to make him dangerously morose and incautious.

To supply a desperate prisoner with deadly weapons is an act to be viewed with disfavor. If the sheriff learns who took the liberty of doing so he should speak to him firmly, and if circumstances permit, remove him from the payroll.

Congressman Dyer is on this coast speaking in favor of his anti-lynching bill. Of course the bill commands general sympathy and support, outside of congress.

Lynching is a form of lawlessness most destructive to respect for established and orderly processes. It tends to break down all law. Moreover it disgraces any community in which it occurs.

WATCHING THE PARADE

By JOHN PILGRIM

Old Man Rich's son came in to see him last night. I happened to be encumbering the old man's study and smoking one of the old man's black cigars. The boy tried to back out, but his father wouldn't let him.

"I want to get married," the boy finally blurted out. He was red, embarrassed, angry at his father's deliberate obstinacy in compelling him to a confession in front of a comparative stranger. "She's an actress."

The old man pulled at his cigar. For a time there was silence.

"Do you love her enough to wait for her a year," he asked, "without seeing her?"

The boy protested, of course, but the old man hardly listened. By and by he explained himself. The most important thing in any man's life, he said, is the selection of a wife.

"Look 'em over," he said to the boy. "You know Cal Berry."

We all know Cal Berry. No better boy ever lived. His little wife is as sweet and pretty and nice a little thing as can be found. But she has no more brain than a chip-munk. She has no internal resources at all. The only books she can read are the sex-putrid novels of the moment. It is doubtful if she knows the name of the President of the United States. Her ignorance of her own country, its political system, its laws, its extent, is phenomenal. She rises as late as possible in the morning that she may stay up as late as possible at night. Their baby is entrusted to the care of a succession of nurses.

Every one knows that the Berrys are on the verge of a break. It isn't the little wife's fault, actually. One cannot blame an English sparrow for being an English sparrow. But one does not cage a sparrow in the belief that it is a nightingale.

"Marry an actress if you want to," said the old man. "But be sure she is the woman with whom you will want to spend the rest of your life."

COMMODITY PRICES HIGH ENOUGH, SAYS BABSON

Statistician Discusses the Present Situation in Relation to Bonds

WELLESLEY HILLS, Mass., May 11, 1923.—The radical recovery of commodity prices from August 1821 to date has brought general business above average and is the foundation for the reasoning of a good many who have predicted increasing prices through 1823. Therefore, Roger W. Babson's statement on the situation, issued today, is of unusual interest.

"There have been five major movements in commodity prices since the beginning of the World War," says Mr. Babson. "First, we had a great rise from early 1915 to the peak in August, 1918. Immediately at the close of the war prices suffered a sentimental decline. Then post-war inflation caused a steady rise from the spring of 1919 to the middle of 1920.

"As depression set in, the worst commodity panic in economic history carried us over the middle of 1920 to the low of August, 1921. The fifth phase of the movement has been a 19 month's rise, during which prices have climbed over 30 per cent—an abnormal development.

"The reasons for this recent upswing give us some indication as to its probable development. It was caused by an increase in physical production, and has continued until today it is above the normal growth line. Total volume of business has increased until it is also slightly above normal. Monetary conditions have been and are very good, with large volume of circulation, strong volume of federal reserve statistics, good turn over, and sound credit conditions.

"A shortage of transportation has stimulated buying. Wages have increased substantially. Purchasing power of the industrial community has been reflected in better business. Even the farmer, who was hard hit has gradually climbed out of his financial chaos. The upward trend of the stock market and new construction figures add two more arguments on the bullish side of th eledger.

"The present technical position of the commodity market, however, is very similar to that of 1920. Production has reached a point where we cannot hope to consume at such a rate indefinitely. Many commodities are being made so fast that they must of necessity pile up surplus stocks by 1924. The present administration is also adverse to further inflation. Car shortage has been reduced to one-third of what it was and more favorable weather conditions and seasonal changes in business cannot help but clear up the traffic situation.

"Since the present market is being adequately supplied, there is little justification that increasing prices of commodities can long continue. The cost of living fundamentally is still too high and is destined during the next few years to recede to a lower level. European conditions are still unfavorable, and until a further constructive program is announced we cannot reasonably expect a further radical stimulation of business.

"The growing reluctance on the part of the buyer to stock up on high-priced merchadise is an indication of the end of the upward rise by 1924 at the latest. The underlying structure is probably strong enough to justify moderate advance in some lines and a high average commodity price level for some months longer; but it is probable that prices by or before 1924 will turn for a reaction. As the advance slows up and transportation difficulties are solved, buying will ease off and general business should fall back to a level below normal. This slackening will ease money rates and cause bonds to again take up their long swing rise."

SOCIAL WORK TODAY

By H. ADDINGTON BRUCE

Author of "The Riddle of Personality," "Self-Development," Etc.

(Copyright, 1923, by The Associated Newspapers)

There still are many people, it would seem, who identify social work with the purely charitable enterprise it used to be. To them social workers are merely persons who volunteer to go about dispensing alms and endeavoring by kind words as well as deeds to help the poor and the unfortunate endure their hard lot.

And, indeed, charity continues, as it should, to have a large place in social work. Also, so long as social work remains to be done, kindness of word and deed is sure to bulk large in it.

But whereas the social work of earlier times was chiefly ameliorative, the social work of today is primarily curative and preventive. It is an outgrowth of increasing appreciation of the remediable causes that enter to keep the poor not only poor but in ill-health and too often delinquent.

These causes have been made increasingly apparent by scientific research, particularly medical research and psychological research. In proportion as knowledge of their influence has been gained there has come a growing demand for social workers intensively trained to supplement the efforts of physicians, psychiatrists and penologists in coping with the conditions that make for poverty, disease and crime.

Hence, social work has now attained the dignity of a professional vocation. Not only relief organizations, but schools, hospitals and courts give employment to social workers. Special training facilities have been provided for them. And such facilities are indispensable, in view of the varied and exacting requirements imposed upon the social worker of today.

As noted by a foremost authority on the subject, Edward T. Devine:

"Breadth of knowledge and ability to reason clearly, capacity for recognizing a fact and interpreting it, a shrewd instinct for detecting fraur and fallacy, the protection of common sense against plausible absourdities, and a quick understanding such as springs from human sympathy and good-will, are among the necessary characteristics of the successful social worker."

Without being a physician, the modern social worker is expected to be cognizant of many basic medical facts, particularly as regards the science of nutrition, home sanitation and personal hygiene. Without being a teacher, the social worker must be qualified to instruct in many fields.

And, above all, the social dorker of today is required to possess a thorough grounding in analytical psychology, the science of human behavior. Without such knowledge she will be as one groping in the dark, helpless to render to those whose homes she enters the constructive aid it is her special mission to render them.

Constructiveness, in fine, is the outstanding feature of present-day social work, the feature which most sharply differentiates it from the alms-giving social work of previous generations. There was—there probably always will be—need of the alms-giving type of social work. But it is important not to confuse it with the really more valuable type which has in such great measure superseded it.

And which, it is safe to predict, will more and more supersede it as knowledge grows of the possibilities of personality reconstruction.

HOME NURSING and HEALTH HINTS

"MAN WANTS B UT LITTLE"

The man who had never been ill a day in his life scoffed openly at doctors and nurses and hospitals.

"All nonsense!" he would say. "Fads! Cures! Notions! That's what!"

Then he would consume enough food for at least two men. He almost always took two desserts. Whipped cream was his hobby.

As his bank account grew he began to pay great attention to his wine cellar. He stocked it generously. His devotion to it did not stop when it was stocked.

The result was that within a year the man who had never been ill a day in his life became difficult to live with.

"I can't imagine what ails John," his wife said one day to the hair dresser, beauty parlors being one of the great American institutions for which she had developed a passion.

"He is so ill-natured! Scowls from the moment he gets up till he goes to bed. Nothing suits him any more. He is fussy about his food.

"Things which used to appeal to him don't even interest him any more."

"I wouldn't be surprised if he had been overstoking. It's easy to do it."

"Overstoking? I don't know just what you mean," said John's wife as the little hair-dresser stepped back to allow her to admire the effect wrought by her skilled fingers.

"Overstoking? Oh, yes," said the hair-dresser. "Eating too much, I meant.

"Some folks have enough money to get whatever they can eat and some have only enough to get whatever they can get. Most folks eat too much and it gets to be a habit with them. And habit, you know, is hard to break."

John's wife sighed. John certainly did eat a good deal.

But the mere mention of "going on a diet" was enough to make John violently abusive of the entire educational system for at least an hour, so his wife said nothing to him.

When driven by intense and oft-repeated gastric pain to consult a specialist, John found himself confronted with the necessity of "going on a diet" and accepting professional advice about what he should and should not eat, his wife was ready to help him.

Quietly, and with an entire absence of fuss, rich foods such as John had always demanded began to disappear from his table. Breakfast became, instead of a meal in which one course vied with another, a simple meal of fruit and cereal, toast and rolls, coffee or milk.

John ate what was placed before him and asked no questions.

The food he consumed became simpler and coarser, requiring more mastication, which prolonged the time devoted to eating. John then found the health which had almost evaded him.

A Fisherman's Tragedy

By JOHN BRECK

A sun with a shining, Sunday-morning face; a sandbar, where a spirited river slaps at the sea between their wave-to-wave scuffles at high tide, and inquisitive young salmon poke their noses into the scrimmage; add three small boys, one of them a minister's son, and therefore a fisherman by preordination, bait, tackle, and landing-nets ad lib, and you have the recipe for perfect joy. 'Tis too slightly alloyed by chill of the dawn wind to mention, as fish and boys follow their various natures with the usual results.

Things go swimmingly, or singingly, as a line reels out, or floppingly, when a protesting victim comes to land. There's the usual hitch to the proceedings when a hard-mouthed fish succeeds in throwing out his hook; a snag when a leader snaps and the "biggest one of all" gets away. Then z-zing! The minister's son is leaning on his pole and digging his heels into the sand. Old Fin Trouble has hold of his line, busting the other way, with a good head-start.

Presently he brings up standing on his irate tail, showing all his teeth as he throws a back-flop shoreward. Does he know that changing into a loop of slack is the one and only way to snap a line? He acts like it. But the minister's son successfully eases the strain by a maneuvre nothing short of inspired—the sort of inspiration so common to feckless youth, so rare to wiser grownups.

Old Fin Trouble is likewise inspired. He starts upstream, in deep water and clear going, our doughty fisherman in tow, wading through deep sand, stumbling over rocky hazards, ploughing through a pathless leg-trap of low brush, and across a snaky, sticky bit of bog—distinctly "in the rough" as a golfer so aptly puts it. Then out he ventures on a sandbar; he'd know it for quicksand if he had time to think. But he doesn't!

And it isn't! He has firm anchorage again, and his two companions, slower of foot because they lack the urge of that line, catch up with him. "Look out for my arms!" he gasps. "Not my belt—shuts off my wind!" So most of the strain comes about his pant's pockets. Their combined weight stops the fish. But he doesn't reel in. He's sulking to get his second wind.

Another inspiration seizes that genius of the rod. "Here, Tad, you take the pole!" with these epic words he strips him to the pink and, guided, like Theseus, by that silken cord, invades the murky labyrinth of the floor. The stirring crisis defies description.

He gets his fish. His tragedy lies not there. But then—he's the minister's son! Here he stands, fumbling at his buttons with fingers that tremble with excitement, not cold—for his whole being glows as he sees the catch of the season lying there. Yet he can't brag about it! Can he even take it home, to see how victory tastes? We advise him not.

NEW WAVE ALLOTMENTS TO REDUCE INTERFERENCE

[By Associated Press]

CHICAGO, May 10.—Elimination of the conflict of voices and music in the air, due to the number of radio broadcasting stations using the same wave length, soon will be under way as a result of measures decided upon at the recent radio conference in Washington.

The new wave lengths, which will range from 222 to 545 meters, are to be available May 15. One of the largest of the local stations, KYW, has announced it will thereafter send on 448 meters instead of 400 meters. The higher powered stations may use wave lengths between 288 and 545 meters, while those of less power will be assigned waves from 222 to 286 meters.

The new allotments will reduce interference to a minimum. Chicago will send on 448; Davenport on 484; Des Moines, 484; Detroit, 517; Dearborn, 517; Cleveland, 390; Toledo, 390; Cincinnati, 309; Madison, 417 and Minenapolis, 417.

NEWS AND VIEWS OF BURBANK AND ITS ENVIRONS

GOOD PROGRAM PROMISED FOR TONIGHT

Recital of Mrs. Sparrow's Advanced Pupils to Be Excellent

The music loving public will find that the concert at the Edison building this evening will be one of the best recitals heard for some time. Mrs. Sparrow's advanced pupils are a credit to the artist's instruction.

The two-piano number is always an interesting feature of any recital, and both Miss Colburn and Miss Hall, who will play the Arensky suite, have a way of pleasing the hearers. The entire program consists of selections that are favorites with a musical audience.

Particularly interesting will be the evening for the young pupils of the John Muir school who have been studying music appreciation. Many of the numbers have been on the list of the Music Memory contest. The other numbers are written by composers whose work has been studied by the pupils.

The first number, "To a Wild Rose" (MacDowell), is a selection which the children have shown a fondness for, and tonight they will have a chance to contrast it with another selection written by the same composer, one being played immediately after the other.

"Anitra's Dance" (Greig), which is very familiar with the children, can be contrasted with another one from the same suite of "Peer Gynt."

Paderewski's Minuet will be played by Laura Redden. Chopin, Beethoven, Mendelssohn and Schubert compositions will be a part of the program.

HI Y CLUB SPONSOR ENTERTAINMENT

A hilarious entertainment was enjoyed Thursday by hundreds of school children, when the Hi Y Club of the High school sponsored the program for the general assembly. They had secured Mr. Waterman, director of the boys' work department of the Y. M. C. A. of Long Beach, to give the program.

The pupils had invited all the John Muir school children, and the big audience would not let the entertainer clos his program, but repeatedly called him back. He is a pianist, a ventriloquist and first-class jokesmith.

One of his stunts was having a little puppet show, with the tiny "Rastus" dummy to help him out on his ventriloquism. Between Mr. Waterman and "Rastus" there was a fund of jokes about the high school pupils, which created gales of laughter.

A negro quartet, with Mr. Waterman singing all four parts, aroused the admiration of the girls and boys.

A whistling solo, demonstrating real artistry on the part of the entertainer, featured part of the program.

An entertaining running pianologue, with Mr. Waterman announcing his own songs, such as, "We Can't Select Our Faces, But We Can Pick Our Own Teeth," and "I Miss Dear Old Mother, But Usually Get Father," caused the children to want to move right down to Long Beavh, where they could hear Mr. Waterman every day.

As assembly program fixers, the Hi Y Club was voted a decided success.

ARTISTS GIVE RADIO PROGRAM

Burbank Musicians Broadcast Recital Thursday

Burbank received more free advertising Thursday evening, when the musicians of the town broadcasted a radio program from station KHJ. They gave a very excellent program, which reflected great glory on the town.

The Palais Majestic orchestra, Grace Lovejoy, Ned Palmer, Frank Wilburn, Michael Quinte and Paul Kent were the artists who presented the two-hour musical.

Today they were receiving many compliments for the skillful entertainment given.

JUDGE CRAWFORD SETS HEARING FOR EVENING

Judge Crawford held an evening court session Thursday night. Five bus drivers were arrested Tuesday evening, charged with having intoxicating liquor in their possession, in their cars and on their persons. They denied having jugs of liquor in their possession.

The evening session was held for two reasons, one was that it would be cooler at that time of day, and second was that it was more convenient for the stage drivers to appear in court then.

JOAQUIN MILLER P. T. A. TO BEAUTIFY SCHOOL GROUNDS; TO START READING CIRCLE

The first formal program of the Joaquin Miller school was a delightful affair and the large number of mothers who attended were very much pleased with the program. It was strictly a mothers' meeting, carrying a homey atmosphere, for many of the mothers came bringing their babies, ranging in age from three months to six years.

The setting for the friendly gathering was ideal, it being held in the new sunny kindergarten room, where wide windows on both sides of the room let in plenty of cool breezes and the outlook showed a valley encircled by mountains. The light, airy room, finished in restful shades of green, with the artistic handiwork of the kindergarten babies displayed on the walls, formed a pleasing background for the happy afternoon.

"Mothers' Day" was the subject of the afternoon's consideration. Little Mary Frances Hamner was heartily applauded for the way in which she recited "Mothers' Day."

Mrs. Homer Jones, accompanied by Mrs. Myrtle Radcliffe Hart, sang with her usual charm two numbers. Her first one, "His Lullaby (Bond), was a decided contrast to the lively one following, "Old Fashioned Dear" (Ellis), showing her thoughtful interpretation and the rich quality of her voice.

Six first-grade pupils from the room of Mrs. Christensen gave a recitation which spelled "Mother." The happy unaffected manner of the children delighted the audience.

L. F. Collins, superintendent of the grammar grades, spoke briefly on the topic, "The Mother's Job." He told of the mother's job as seen from a teacher's point of view. From his observances of pupils at school, he thought that the mother should be a companion and help in the development of the character of the child by entering into the interests of the little ones.

Creating ideals for the growing youngster was another important duty of the mother which should not be overlooked. Always keep the ideal just far enough ahead of the child to keep him striving for perfection, was his idea.

One very important job of the mother is to keep in touch with the child's teachers and school work, he said. It is necessary to have the child read at home and do number work at home, and thus keep in touch with his development. When a report card shows "good" work then a parent will be in a position to know why it was not marked "excellent," and can spur the pupil on to attempts to win the mark of "excellent." It is a vital necessity that the parents have a thorough knowledge of the girl's or boy's school work, he declared.

A violin solo, "Adoration" (Borowski), by Miss Myrtle Newhall of Glendale, accompanied by Miss Alice Gratrix, was the pleasing number which closed the entertainment.

Generous servings of ice cream and very delicious slices of homemade cakes were passed by the teachers and hostesses at the close of the program.

During the business session it was announced that at the first meeting of the P.-T. A. of the Joaquin Miller school sixteen members were enrolled and others will be transferred from the general P.-T. association, forming a branch of the association to which 75,000 people in the United States belong.

It was announced that the next meeting would be held on the second Thursday in June, which will close the year's work. The chairman of the reading circle asked for a written statement from every one present suggesting what would be good books to study. Suggestions for books on the study of the child and the training of the mind and of any book of interest to parents will be welcomed.

The president, Mrs. Rogers, appointed Mrs. Rush to ask two assistants in selecting shade trees for the new school grounds.

Mrs. Gratrix announced the coming of Frederick Warde at the High School next Thursday afternoon, and urged the attendance of every one who can go.

Mr. Collins announced the "Mothers' Day" program, which will be given at the Edison school at 3:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon by the Choral Club.

PERMITS GROW SMALL AND THIN

Better than nothing by $2,900, the Burbank inspector's office showed only two building permits filed for Thursday. Permits were issued to Ray Cecil Stockton, 369 North Magnolia avenue, $2,800; Henry Spahr, 466 North Orange Grove avenue, $100.

The three boys who were arrested last Saturday morning for disturbing the peace were taken to the county jail, but were released during the evening through the efforts of their parents, who did not wish to have them spend Sunday in jail. Young Hardman was released upon $25 bail, and his two companions in the boisterous pranks, which they have found amusement in playing during public meetings at the Central school, were released on their own recognizance. They were all certified over to the juvenile court, but owing to the fact that this is their first offense they will, no doubt, be shown leniency and allowed to remain at home upon their good behavior.

A picture that will echo in your heart like a magic melody

"Mighty Lak' a Rose"

It IS a magic melody! This rhapsody of the city streets played on the heartstrings. A tale of love and devotion, of strong men and women of two kinds, of dark streets and sunlit places, of the magic of music—and of something else that some might call God.
Tender and beautiful—with smiles so that you may wipe away a tear, such is the picture that will come back to you in gladness like the echo of an unforgetable song.

DOUBLE BILL AT CHAUTAUQUA SUNDAY

Orchestra and James Hamilton, Tenor, to Give Program

Music lovers will be charmed by the big double program for Sunday afternoon, which will be given by Charles Mitchell Mixer's orchestral quartet, and James Hamilton, an American lyric tenor. This program will be a combination of the usual afternoon and evening programs and will be an unusual number.

Other offerings for the week will be the Winifred Windus company on Tuesday afternoon in a 30-minute prelude to the Children's Magic Lunor circus. The circus will be produced by Edna Belle Kuhn and the boys and girls of Glendale, who will be trained by Miss Laura Small, the junior supervisor. This is one of the big afternoons of Chautauqua week, and the children are already laying great plans for the circus.

On Tuesday evening Miss Windus will read the play, "Six Cylinder Love," assisted by Leslie Taylor, violinist, and Guy Marriner, pianist.

Indian songs, legends, classic and interpretative dances, presented in picturesque native costumes, are the offerings of the Prince Te Ata company on Wednesday afternoon.

The Chautauqua will end in a final blaze of glory on Thursday evening with a remarkably beautiful concert by Thaviu's Exposition band of 25 numbers, assisted by three grand opera singers, whose vocal numbers enhance in an enchanting degree the artistic merit of the program. By placing Thaviu and his band on the seventh day, the association has indeed saved the best for the last.

The afternoon programs will begin at 3:15 each day, and the evening numbers at 8 o'clock as usual.

JAMES W. FOLEY

THE RURAL PHILOSOPHER

"Whatever may happen," said old Abner Spry,
"I don't worry about it."
"She may be too wet or she may be too dry.
"I don't worry about it."
"If worry would change things I'd worry a lot
But I've lived sixty years and I know it will not,
So it may be too cold and it may be too hot,
I don't worry about it."

"I plow pretty well and I put in my grain
And don't worry about it.
I'd feel pretty good if it came on to rain,
But don't worry about it.
I get me good seed and I plow pretty deep
I may get good prices or have to sell cheap,
But I work in the day and in night time I sleep
And don't worry about it."

"I've borrowed and dickered and been some in debt,
But don't worry about it;
I've been some hard up, but I've never starved yet,
And don't worry about it.
I may get a crop, but I never can tell,
The price may be low when I've plenty to sell,
But year in and year out I do pretty well,
And don't worry about it."

"It's easy to say but it's hard, I'll admit,
Not to worry about it.
But I've had some hard knocks and it don't help a bit
If you worry about it.
If I just keep a-plugging along every day
I know after while things will come all my way,
So when the sun comes out I start making hay,
And don't worry about it."

AGE IS STATE OF MIND, SAYS CARTER

SAN FRANCISCO, May 16.—(United Press).—"Age is a state of mind for the most part. I shall never grow old." Such is the sentiment of Mrs. Leslie Carter, famous actress, called the Bernhardt of the American stage. She is soon to appear in a number of plays in Oakland.

"Time flies, but why worry about getting old. Think, act, play the part of youth and be young always. I shall be."

CHILDREN HOLD REUNION
[By Associated Press]

BERKELEY, Calif.—Five hundred children of the University of California classmen who graduated in 1903 will take part in the twentieth anniversary exercises on the campus at commencement time, May 12-15. The children range from infants to 15 years. Members of the class are coming from all parts of the world to participate. Charles E. Crane, '03 graduate, has arrived here from Shanghai, China, accompanied by Mrs. Crane and nine children. Walter Brown, a mining engineer of South Africa, and family will also attend.

HUNSBERGERS ARE OFF ON THE BIG OPEN ROAD

Friends of Daniel Hunsberger, of Glendale, who is enroute by automobile to Philadelphia, have been receiving some interesting letters regarding his trip, which is proving to be a most enjoyable one, although all kinds of weather conditions and roads have been encountered, as his letter below will indicate:

Dear folks:

We are at present in Las Vegas, N. M., that is for tonight. We have had some trip so far and have had no trouble at all. The roads from Victorville to the Colorado river are in a terrible condition, but the New Mexico roads are dandy.

We have lots of company all along the way but I sure I do not know what California is going to do with all the people who are going there. We meet hundreds of machines going west daily and few in comparison going east.

The old Studebaker sure is a dandy. It goes up those long grades mile after mile on high, and believe me, when one goes up 8500 feet you are going some.

We have had every kind of weather—hot, cool, rainy, sunny and even snow and hail, but nothing stopped us. We have had no trouble at all, until we entered a garage here and picked up a tack—but that isn't trouble on a trip like this.

We passed an Indian funeral at Springerville, Ariz. The coffin was carried to the cemetery, and it was followed by a large procession. The only covering the coffin had was net. They sang all the way back.

We have made 200 miles each day, excepting today, but we had all big mountains to cross.

We are having a wonderful trip and if everything keeps up as well as in the past, we will reach Philadelphia before we anticipated.

Best regards to everyone.

Sincerely,
DANIEL HUNSBERGER.
